Acknowledgements

Research is a very challenging endeavour, and I regard it as a matter of great privilege for having pursued my research under the supervision of Dr. V.V. Upmanyu (Chairman, Department of Psychology). The most rewarding aspect has been, to be his student. His intellectual brilliance, caring guidance coupled with scientific precision helped me throughout my research. I am completely bereft of words to express my appreciation for his untiring efforts and guidance, that enormously contributed to the completion of this task. The present work is the outcome of his hard work, despite his busy schedule, unique equanimity, incessant encouragement and intense devotion to academics.

I am obliged to the ICSSR for awarding me a short-term fellowship, to the staff of the Panjab University Computer Centre for their help in data processing, and to Mr. Mahendra Pratap for typing the manuscript.

I take pleasure in thanking the subjects who willingly participated in this study, and whose co-operation was an essential pre-requisite for this research.

I am deeply indebted to all my friends and family members who helped me throughout. Above all I am grateful to the Almighty for having given me the strength to complete this research.
