ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

During my study I have worked with a great number of people whose contribution in assorted ways to the research and the making of the thesis deserve special mention. It is a pleasure for me to convey my gratitude to them in a humble acknowledgement.

In the first place I would like to record my deepest gratitude to my Supervisor and Chairperson, Dr. Ronki Ram, for his advice and guidance from the initial to the final level of the study that enabled me to develop an understanding of the subject. Above all and the most needed, he provided me unflinching support and encouragement throughout the work. His constant inspiration to research on actual problems enriched my growth as a student and a researcher. I am indebted to him more than he knows.

I gratefully thank all the members of the Faculty of the Department of Political Science, Panjab University, Chandigarh who amidst all their busy activities took out time for advice and guidance for any doubts I had. They greatly helped me widen the perspective of my research.

It is a pleasure to pay tribute to Mr. S. L. Sharma, Mr. Paramjit Singh, Ms. Aruna Sharma, Mr. Sewan Kumar, Birbalji and the rest of the non-teaching staff for helping in dealing with the administrative matters so that I could optimally carry out my research.

I would also like to acknowledge all the NGOs who were the backbone of my research, for allowing me to work with them. A special note of thanks is due for all the respondents as interactions with them helped me to enrich my study. I am grateful to all the academicians and government officials who were kind enough to offer their valuable insights despite their hectic schedules.

Without the encouragement of my family it would have been impossible for me to finish this work. I owe my loving thanks to my husband Maj. Ashish Agarwal and my parents in law, Sh. B. C. Agarwal and Smt. Manju Agarwal for their perpetual emotional support. They have lost a lot due to my constant unavailability from the family scene. Special gratitude is due to my parents, Sh. S. K. Bansal and Smt. Savitri Bansal, my brother Roopak, sister in law Geetika and little Divyam for their loving and unconditional support. My loving thanks to all the rest of my family including my sister in law and her husband, Monika and Naveen and dear Dakshita and Akshita, my brother and sister-in-law, Deepak and Nidhi and dear Dhruv who have been a constant support. I am at a loss of words to express my gratitude to all of them.

Collective and individual acknowledgements are also owed to my colleagues. I would like to acknowledge in particular my senior Dr. Saroj Lohan, for her support. In my daily work, I was blessed with a cheerful group of fellow students – Jaswinder Kaur, Shivani Batra and Sunil who shared with me the pain and pleasure over the long and arduous journey of completing this research. I owe my thanks to my former classmates at Jawahar Lal Nehru University, New Delhi for their constant support and also dry humor about a researcher’s life.

The financial support of University Grants Commission (Junior Research Fellowship) is gratefully acknowledged.

I offer my regards to all those who supported me in any respect during the completion of my thesis and I could not mention them one by one.

Lastly, any errors in the work are my responsibility.
