I wish to take this opportunity to express my deep sense of gratitude and thankfulness to my esteemed supervisor, Dr. Lakhwinder. S. Minhas, whose expert and critical guidance enabled me to accomplish this task of research successfully. His valuable and constructive suggestions, both for the theoretical and empirical aspects of my work, helped to mould and refine this study in a substantive way.

I extend my thanks to Dr. J.M. Jerath, Chairman, Department of Psychology, Panjab University, Chandigarh, for supporting me and providing me with all the facilities during my research. I am grateful for the unconditional help rendered by Ms Snehlata Jaswal throughout my work. I am extremely thankful to Prof. Navdeep. S. Tung for his kind help in applying discriminant analysis.

I am indebted to Mr. C.S.R. Reddy (IPS), DIG, who initially motivated me to do quality research work in the area of recidivism. I express my gratitude to Mr. K.L. Sharma, IG (Prisons), who permitted me to collect data from different prisons of Punjab. I also thank the University Grants Commission for providing me Research Fellowship.

Thanks are also due to the Correctional Service of Canada, especially Dr. James Bonta, Solicitor-General, Canada, for providing enormous information regarding research on recidivism. Dr. Vernon L. Quinsey and Dr. Edward Zamudio of Queen’s University, Kingston, Ontario and Dr. Marnie E. Rice and Dr. Grant T. Harris, of Mental Health Center, Penetanguishene, Ontario, helped me by being a constant source of relevant information.

I am thankful to my parents and friends for their constant emotional support, help and inspiration. Last but not the least, I am indebted to all the subjects who gave their wholehearted cooperation in the collection of data for this research. Without their help this study would not have been possible.
