REFERENCES
REFERENCES

Amutha, V and S. Srisudha (2008) a comparison on the algal diversity and Physico chemical profile of selected contaminated water bodies of Madurai. India. Eco. Env and cons, 14(2-3): 375-378

Birsal, N.R., Deshpande, V.K., Gouder, BYM and Nadkarni, V.B.1985. Chemical changes in the surface waters during the filling phase of a tropical reservoir on Kali river, North kenara district, Karnataka state. In proceedings on Environmental Impact Analysis of water resources project, Roorkee, India.2:801-810.

70.

Escribano, R. and P. Hidalgo, 2000. Spatial distribution of copepods in the North of the Gerloff J and Ludemannp. 1966. Leit taden der Trink and Bruch – Asserbiologio, Gustav Fischer Verlag Stuttgargt

Gonzalves, E.A. and Joshi, D.R. 1946. Fresh water algae near Hegde G.R. 1986. Some noteworthy desmids from Londa, Karnataka State (India) Hydrobiology 134; 113-115.

Koorosh Jalilzadeh, Sadanand M. Yamakanamardi and K. Altaff .2009. Abundance of Manawar M., 1970. Limnological studies on fresh water of certain polluted and unpolluted environment, Hydrobiological 36(1) 105-128.

Munawar (1970) limnological studies of fresh water pond of Hyderabad. India
II. The Biocenose.
Murugan, N., P. Murugavel and M.S. Koderkar: Freshwater cladocera; Indian Murugavel and M.S. Kodarkar, 1998. Cladocera: The biology, classification, identification ecology. Indian Association of Aquatic Biologists (IAAB), Hyderabad.
zooplankton ecology of kadinamkulam backwater. Proc. Indian Nautilus 94: population in Thirukkulam pond during summer and rainy Nautiyal P., 1985. Studies on the riverine ecology of torrential waters in the Indian uplands of Garhwal region. I. Seasonal variations in percentage occurrence of planktonic algae. Uttar Pradesh
Journal of Zoology 5, pp14-19
Nazneen S. 1980. Influence of Hydrological factors on seasonal abundance of phytoplankton in Kinjhar Lake, Pakistan Int. Revu Ges.
Hydrobiol. 65(2): 269-282.
Himalaya. In Advances in Limnology. Ed. H.R. Singh, Narendra
Publishing House, Delhi
Eastern limited, New Delhi. pp 36-60.
Pendse D C. Yogesh Shastri and Barbate V P: 9(2000). Hydrobiological study

Roudn and Crowford (1990) and Hoek et al., Provide more comprehensive coverage of diatom taxonomy.

Roynolds, C.S. 1982, Phytoplankton periodicity, its motivation mechanisms and manipulation report of fresh water biol Ass. 50: 60-75.

Seenayya, G. 1971b, Ecological studies on the phytoplankton of certain fresh water ponds of Hyderabad, India. I Physico chemical Shameel, M. 2008. Change Of Divisional nomenclature in the shameelian classification of algae, int J. Phylob pycohem 4; 225: 232:

Sreenivasan, (1964) A.: Limnological studies and fish yield in three upland lakes of Bangalore, India: Centre for Ecological Sciences, Indian Institute of Science.

Unni (1985), Abraham (1988) who strongly advocated that the blue greens prefer alkaline water.

Wilk Wozniak E. 1998. Late autumn mass development of wononichinia naeyeliana (Cyandohyleae) in a Dam reservoir in southern Poland. Biologia Bratislava, 53(1), 1-5

Wolowski K and H. Grabowska 2007. Trache lomonas Species as the main component of the euglenophy to community in the sieminowka reservoir (Narew River roland) An LIMNOL Int J. Lkm, 43;

