ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

During the preparation of this work I have received help from various quarters. In particular, I would like to express my gratitude to my revered teacher and mentor, Dr. V. Bhalla for his able guidance, constructive comments and criticism. He has been a source of perennial inspiration to me throughout the course of this study. My current interest in the field of 'Lectins' is consequential of his worthy caretaking and able advice. This work of mine is dedicated to him.

I owe a deep debt of gratitude to Professor Dr. S.R.K. Chopra, former Head of the Anthropology Department, Panjab University, Chandigarh, for providing necessary facilities to carry out my research work.

I would like to express my grateful thanks to Dr. J.C. Sharma, Chairman, Department of Anthropology, Panjab University, Chandigarh, for the encouragement I received from him from time to time.

I am grateful to:

Dr. R.L. Bhardwaj, I.A.R.I., New Delhi, for making available to me several seed varieties.

Mr. S.C. Singh for providing specimens of several succulent plant species from his personal collections.

Dr. K.N. Tondon, Veterinary Assistant Surgeon, C.R.I.,
Aggarwal and Dr. Sudershan Tageja, P.G.I., Chandigarh, and Flr. Naresh Sharma, N.D.R.I., Karnal, for the help and co-operation extended to me in the collection of blood samples.

Professor Peter E. Nute, University of Washington Seattle (U.S.A) for arranging necessary computer funds for data processing.

Mr. Robert Ledingham, Programmer, Department of Health Services, University of Washington, for his contribution in programming and data analysis.

My sincere thanks are to Mr. R.B. Gupta, my research colleague in the serology laboratory at Chandigarh and Dr. Vijay Gaur, my brother, for the generous help rendered by them in the compilation of this script.

I have a special word of thanks to my wife, Mrs. Laxmi K. Gaur, who helped me in the preparation of the manuscript, besides being a constant source of encouragement to me.
