ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Having been born and brought up in a family belonging to the judicial fraternity of the State of Punjab, I seemed to have imbibed and perceived the best of the ethos of this "secluded tribe". My father has been a constant source of inspiration to me, while his active participation in the affairs of the All India Judges Association widened my own field of perception, providing a rare insight into the work environment and work culture of the Judiciary besides various types of their special 'professional' problems. I am therefore, highly thankful to all those Judicial Officers all over the country, who spared valuable time from their over-busy schedules to actively participate in this research.

I express my gratitude to all those who helped me to make this 'dream project' come through. The list is indeed headed by an indefatigable expert, my esteemed supervisor, Dr. Meena Sehgal, Reader, Department of Psychology, who provided me with academic direction, scholarly support and emotional back-up from the beginning to the completion of this project. She has been readily available to me with a cheerful visage at all odd hours, according to my comfort and without caring for her own inconvenience. Her timely and appropriate guidance at every stage of the assignment was a sine qua non for my progress.

I am thankful to Professor Jitendra Mohan who evinced a keen interest in this research project and provided all help with his pragmatic approach based on a vast experience and varied expertise.

No words can however express my gratitude to my understanding and affectionate husband, who stood by me and kept my spirits buoyed up whenever I momentarily got overwhelmed by the enormity of the task in hand, and by the temporary hurdles that came in the way, along with my affectionate parents-in-law, who also cheerfully bore prolonged periods of my absence from home.

And in this connection, how can I forget dear Bir, Shivani, Jyoti and Tinni who provided me with friendly and warm companionship besides helping in the arduous task of consolidating and processing the data? I am highly thankful to Madan Bhaiya, Parvinder, Kirti and Neeraj who lent a helping hand, taking valuable time out of their busy schedule. In this context, my mother and grand-mother too had an active role of constantly putting up with my demands for cupfuls of tea, coffee and varied snacks at all odd hours of day and night. Perhaps a word is required for ‘Caesar’ too who invariably kept company with me beside my work table!

In the end, as I give final touches to this research, I can sit back and say 'Thank you, Tarun, I could not have done it without you!'.
