ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Words are not enough to express my profound gratitude and reverence for my esteemed supervisor, Prof. V. V. Upmanyu, Department of Psychology, Panjab University, Chandigarh, who with his scholarly erudition and knowledge, imparted his valuable guidance to me. This research endeavor would not have been possible without his insightful thinking and analytical approach. I am deeply indebted to him for nurturing my research aptitude and enriching this thesis in innumerable ways. I am eternally grateful to him for his keen interest, able guidance, tremendous encouragement and approachability.

I am immensely thankful to the Chairperson, Prof. Meena Sehgal, Department of Psychology, Panjab University and other members of the faculty, especially Prof. J.M. Jerath and Prof. Anuradha Bhandari, for providing all the facilities and co-operation for the progress of this research work.

I offer my heartfelt gratitude to the Principals and Teachers of the various public schools for extending their whole hearted support and granting me the permission to collect information from their schools for my research work. The backbone of this edifice are the students whose cooperation, support and zest ensured the successful completion of this research effort.

I would like to express my sincere gratitude to the office staff of the Department of Psychology, Panjab University, Chandigarh for providing me with their timely help and necessary facilities.

I offer my sincere thanks to the staff members of the various libraries, All India Institute of Medical Sciences, New Delhi; Tulsi Das
Library, PGIMER, Chandigarh; A.C. Joshi Library, Panjab University, Chandigarh and the facilities provided by the Digital Library A.C. Joshi Library, P. U., Chandigarh for their support and co-operation.

The cherished desire and blessings of my beloved Father and Maternal Grandfather, who have touched my life in such a way that their presence is felt in their absence too, has made this dream a reality. I am profoundly indebted to my Mother, who has been a pillar of strength and a source of inspiration in life. I am immensely grateful to my sister Sonaina for her love, unflinching support and help rendered in the hour of need. They have stood by me through thick and thin. Without their unconditional love and implicit faith in my capabilities, this piece of work would not have seen the light of day. I extend my earnest thanks to my Uncle Maj. Gen. P.R, Misal (Retd.) for his constant motivation and encouragement. I am also thankful to all my friends and well wishers who have stood by me in life and through the completion of this research endeavor.

Last but not the least I am grateful to the Almighty for giving me the fortitude and persistence to bring this text to fruition. This has truly been an enriching experience . . . !

NITASHA KHEHRA
25.5.07
NITASHA KHEHRA