Acknowledgements

This part of the thesis, I believe, is even more difficult to compose than the other portions because I do not wish to leave out even one single person who contributed to the completion of this work but I have to do so eventually. When I look back several faces appear before my eyes, whom I owe a debt of gratitude. I will name some of them while many others will remain unmentioned. This, of course, does not mean that they are less important than others in their help and support for the completion of this research. First, I owe a debt of profound gratitude to my supervisor, Professor Pushpinder Syal for her guidance, resourcefulness which inspired me to do my level best and truly enrich my educational experience. I am also grateful to her for the high standard she demanded and clearing the way for the smooth running of this work during the hard times. My gratitude is also due to Professor Rana Nayer, the chairperson of the English department, and the administrative staff especially Mrs. Sharma for their kindness and assistance.

I am very grateful to Prof. Francois Salager Meyer, Venezuela University, the well known researcher in medical discourse researches, for sending me the manuscripts, offprints, and copies of her articles in medical researches. My acknowledgements also go to Mr. Nazaree and other colleagues in Tabriz university of Medical University for their assistance and sharing their time and experience with me.

Words fail me to express my immense gratitude and deep indebtedness to my parents, the best in the world for me, for their constant support, wise guidelines, encouragement and understanding through my life and study; without whose generosity it would not have been possible for me to translate my dream into reality. No amount of gratitude and appreciation will compensate for what they have done for me. Finally, I shall be failing in my duty if I do not thank the members of my family who have been a source of constant moral support and affection throughout this research effort and made my staying from them a lot easier.

I would like to thank Almighty who gave me the strength to complete this research project.
