Acknowledgements

First of all I must express my deep gratitude to my learned supervisor, Dr. B. Raj Kumar, Senior Professor and Head of the Post-Graduate Department of Research and Teaching in English, Punjab University, Chandigarh for scholarly guidance in my work all along.

Next, I am grateful to the American Studies Research Centre, Hyderabad - and especially its (then) Director, Dr. Charles Bosco - for offering me an opportunity through a short-term Teacher Study Fellowship to bring the work up-to-date with the help of re-revised and unimproved articles available at their Library at Hyderabad. I am equally thankful to the American Library, New Delhi for useful and relevant material.

I also express my gratitude to Mr. B. C. Schaeffer, Deputy Chief, Cultural Affairs Office, United States Information Service, New Delhi for procuring for me certain material from the States at the shortest possible request.

Thanks are also due to Messrs. R. I. Amrit and C. K. Meena - my students, who share my enthusiasm for linguistics in general and American English in particular.

And finally, I express my thanks to my typist Mrs. S. C. Nagpal, without whose keen interest this final draft of the work would not be possible.
