A NOTE ON DOCUMENTATION

The MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers (fifth edition, 2000) has been consistently used in citing sources within the text as well as in the Works Cited list. Where the context and the signal phrase make the quoted source obvious, the page number in parenthesis alone has been provided. This has been the case with most primary texts as they tend to get quoted more often than the other texts. Where more than one text of an author has been cited, shortened versions of his titles have been given in parenthesis in compliance with the MLA guidelines. As for the electronic sources, like the Internet and CD-ROMs, the name of the author and/or the title of the article, the sponsoring website, the date of creation or modification and the URLs have been furnished to the available extent.
