

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

First and foremost I extend my gratitude to my supervisor Prof. Shelley Walia for allowing me ample freedom as I pursued the research project. Besides his expert academic opinions the completion of the thesis owes much to his patience and persistence.

I also thank Dr. Akshaya Kumar for sharing his invaluable thoughts regarding the issues at hand. Interacting with him informally has indeed been a great learning experience. I thank Dr. Rumina Sethi for inspiring, among others, this student to engage meaningfully with the subject. Gratitude is due to Prof. Rana Nayar for his encouragement and help with certain key resource material.

I am indebted to Mr. Joel V. David whose support in so many ways kept me on course.

I must also thank my friends and fellow research scholars Ph. Sanamacha Sharma and Manisha Gangahar for their help at certain "critical" junctures. I am grateful to Vishal Arora and Priyanka Gupta who ransacked bookshops and libraries in Delhi to help me locate relevant material.

Someone remains unnamed who has shed much Light on many things during the entire five year period and beyond. Thank you!

*U. Akshaya
11/11/05*