ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Words are often too weak a mode of expression of one’s deep feelings and it may be so particularly when I wish to convey a debt of gratitude to those who have helped me in one way or the other in the completion of this thesis.

I really owe a debt of gratitude to my worthy supervisor, Professor S.S. Mathur of the Department of Education on the campus but for whose competent guidance and affectionate encouragement, I would not have had the privilege of improving the quality of the present work. His constructive criticism was a source of constant inspiration for me throughout the course of investigation.

I am grateful to Dr (Mrs.) B.K. Saini, Chairman of the Department of Education on the campus for providing me with all the facilities for my work and also for helping me to solve day-to-day many of my knotty problems.

I was fortunate enough to have Dr. A.C. Moudgil, Lecturer in Clinical Psychology at the Postgraduate Institute of Medical Education and Research, Chandigarh for his indefatigable fact finding zeal which helped me to complete this venture in a fixed time. I am also thankful to Dr. V.K. Kohli, Principal of the Sohan Lal College of Education, Ambala City and Dr. S.K. Nanda, a Lecturer at the Government College of Education, Jalandhar City, who inspired me to do research in this particular field.
I wish to express my gratitude to Dr. Anand Bhushan, Reader, Department of Education, Dr. Jairath, Lecturer, Department of Psychology, Mr. C.M. Behal, Programmer, Mr. Gulshan Kumar, Assistant Programmer, Centre for Computer Science and Applications, Panjab University, Chandigarh for their kind help in the statistical analysis of the data.

I am thankful to Dr. Satish Sharma, Research Fellow, Department of Sociology on the campus, Dr. Paramjit Tulsi, Lecturer, Technical Teacher Training Institute, Chandigarh, Miss Pearl Joseph, M.Phil student, Department of Geography on the campus, giving their valuable suggestions from time to time.

My thanks are also due to the Librarians of the University Library and the Libraries of the Psychology, Education and Sociology Departments on the campus, Central Institute of Education, Delhi University, National Council of Educational Research and Training, New Delhi; Indian Council of Social Sciences Research, New Delhi, Govt. College and D.A.V. College of Education, Hoshiarpur, Dev Samaj College of Education, Ferozepur for their help in providing the relevant literature for the present work.

I thank all the heads of the institutions, parents and students who extended their co-operation during the collection of the data for this study. I am also thankful to Dr. Gurinder Singh Bhagrath, Head Master, Govt.School, Ropar with whom
I had useful discussions at various stages of this study. I wish to acknowledge my debt to Shri Trilochan Singh for typing the thesis quickly and neatly.

My grateful thanks are due to late Chaudhary Balbir Singh, Member Parliament who throughout his life kept on helping me.

I am thankful to the University Grants Commission for the financial assistance of Rs. 2,000/- for the present work.

I acknowledge the sacrifice of my father, Mr. Sukhdev Parkash Sharma for spending a huge amount of money and time for the research work and also for his unfailing patience and co-operation in the completion of this venture. I am deeply beholden to my mother, Mrs. Leela Wati, sisters Harsh and Shashi and their husbands, brothers Kulbhushan and Rakesh and friends who always encouraged me throughout the work and who did their best to keep me in high spirits.

Last but not least, I am thankful to my cute nephew Kanav who always goaded me with his words Moti Kam Kalo Kalo into doing the job earnestly.

CHANDIGARH,
August 6, 1986.
