ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This thesis arose out of years of research that has been done since I enrolled for Ph.D. in the Department of Psychology, Panjab University, Chandigarh. By that time, I have worked with a great number of people whose contribution in assorted ways to the research and the making of the thesis deserved special mention. It is an honor to convey my gratitude to all of them.

First of all, I want to thank the supreme Almighty for blessing me with good health and courage to confront the problems faced during the research work.

I would like to offer my deepest and sincerest gratitude to my Research Supervisor, Dr. Jitendra Mohan, Emeritus Professor, Department of Psychology, Panjab University, Chandigarh. His wide knowledge and logical way of thinking have been of great value for me. His understanding, scholarship and inspirational guidance have provided a good basis for the present thesis. Above all and the most needed, he provided me unflinching encouragement and support in various ways.

I am deeply grateful to my Co-supervisor, Dr. A. K. Sinha, Professor & Head, Department of Anthropology, Panjab University, for his detailed and constructive comments and support. His constant oasis of ideas and knowledge in Social Anthropology has exceptionally enriched my growth as a student, researcher and social scientist. One simply could not wish for a better or friendlier co-supervisor.

I am extremely grateful to Dr. Meena Sehgal, Professor, Department of Psychology, Panjab University, Chandigarh for providing detailed review, constructive criticism and excellent advice during the preparation of schedule for data collection. I am also thankful to Dr. Seema Vinayak, Chairperson, Department of Psychology, Panjab University, Chandigarh for providing the departmental facilities. I am indebted to all my teachers, my classmates, seniors and juniors of the Departments of Psychology and Anthropology. The co-operation and help extended to me by the office staff and library of the department: A.C. Joshi library, Panjab University, Chandigarh; Tulsi Das library, Postgraduate Institute of Medical Education and Research (PGIMER), Chandigarh are also gratefully acknowledged.

My sincere thanks goes to Gp. Captain (Retd.) P. S. Soni, Project Director, Servants of the People Society, Lajpat Rai Bhawan, Chandigarh, for allowing me to collect primary data in the senior citizens' club and providing me all possible support during my field work in Chandigarh.

I would like to acknowledge the support of Help Age India, NGO (Chandigarh Branch) for providing me substantial literature on ageing and sharing important sources of literature with me. I also owe my gratitude to Social Welfare Department, Chandigarh Administration for allowing me to conduct my field visits in the old age homes of Chandigarh.

I would like to thank all the respondents for participating in my study and giving me their valuable time and information. The study would not be possible without their support and co-operation.

My sincere thanks to Dr. B. G. Banerjee, Professor, Department of Anthropology, Panjab University, Chandigarh; Dr. Rajesh Kumar, Professor & Head, School of Public Health, PGIMER, Chandigarh; Dr. Amarjeet Singh, Professor, School of Public Health, PGIMER, Chandigarh and Dr. Manmeet Kaur, Assistant Professor, School of Public Health, PGIMER, Chandigarh for being a source of motivation. Their willingness to share their bright thoughts with me was very fruitful for shaping up my ideas and research.

I wish to thank Mr. Pankaj Bahuguna, School of Public Health, PGIMER, Chandigarh for guiding me in difficulties that I faced in the statistical analysis. I would also like to thank Gurinder Kaur for giving her valuable suggestions for the improvisation of my research work.

This research would not have been possible without the support and understanding of my parents and siblings- Sunny and Neha. They have always supported me in every way I have chosen in life. Their understanding and love encouraged me to work hard and complete my research work. I am also thankful to my in-laws who always gave first preference to my work and encouraged me to finish it in time. I owe relaxation and mental solace to my three little angels- Aanchal, Kanak and Bhavishya at the times I was tense and frustrated.

I would like to mention the name of my lovable and beautiful daughter, Sunidhi. Although she resides in heaven but her innocence, love and support would always remain in my heart. She was a source of motivation for me to complete my research work.

Last not the least, I am greatly indebted to my friend first and then my husband Dr. Sukhbir Singh for standing by me in the entire journey of my research work. He not only offered his excellent and valuable comments but also listened to me whenever I was excited with any new idea. He gave his full contribution in applying the statistical tests and easing my work. His love and support without any complaint or regret has enabled me to complete this research work.

The name of all the authors whose books and articles I read and made use of, particularly in the source of text are not possible to mention here. Their ideas and laborious contributions and I always express my profound gratitude to each one of them.

I wish to acknowledge the persons working in Mohindra Book Shop for making my thesis presentable by putting their invaluable time, resource and efforts.
