ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Hamour and Pangi Sub-divisions of Chamba District are located in one of the remotest corners of Himachal Pradesh. Due to very difficult approach, these areas have remained comparatively unexplored. Inhabited by Gaddi and Pangvata tribes, these areas present some of the finest landscapes of the Pradesh. The Government of Himachal Pradesh have introduced a large number of programmes towards all round welfare of the people living in these areas. This study is an endeavour to analyse these programmes alongwith the agencies involved in their implementation as also the impact of these programmes on the life of the people in the area.

I express my deepest gratitude to Dr. Sudesh Kumar Sharma, Reader, Department of Public Administration, Panjab University, Chandigarh, the Supervisor for this thesis, for his encouragement, guidance and valuable suggestions. I am also thankful to Dr. Satya Deva, Chairman, Department of Public Administration, Panjab University, Chandigarh, for his help.

I am indebted to Shri L.H. Tochinwong, Chief Secretary to the Government of Himachal Pradesh, Shri H.S. Dubey, Shri P.P. Srivastava, Shri A.N. Vidyarthi, Shri D.B. Tandon, Shri Ajay Prasad,
Smt. Suneeta Mukherjee, Shri I.K. Suri and Shri Yogesh Khanna, all members of the Indian Administrative Service, for their suggestions, help and keen interest in this study.

The work could not have been possible without the help and active co-operation of the field officers of Bharour and Pangi Sub-divisions. I am thankful to Shri Balram Sharma and Shri Man Singh, Sub-divisional Magistrates of Bharour and Pangi Sub-divisions. I am also thankful to Shri K.P. Gupta, B.D.O., Bharour and Shri Hoshiar Singh, B.D.O., Pangi, for assisting me in collecting the data. Shri M.L. Kanshal, Tehsildar, Pangi Sub-division and Shri Mohan Lal, Naib-Tehsildar, Bharour Sub-division had been very helpful in providing all facilities.

I take this opportunity to express my gratitude to Shri Ram Chand, Member, Legislative Assembly from these areas, Shri Thakur Singh and Shri Sambhu Ram, Chairman, Panchayat Samitis, Bharour and Pangi respectively for their frank opinion and stimulating discussions regarding the programmes. My thanks are due to Shri P.C. Gupta, District Statistical Officer, Chamba, and all other District Officers for their valuable suggestions.
I am thankful to Shri T.N. Chaturvedi, Director, Indian Institute of Public Administration, New Delhi, for providing facilities in completing the thesis. Special mention must be made to the suggestions made by Prof. S.R. Maheshwari and Prof. Mohit Bhattacharya of the Indian Institute of Public Administration, New Delhi. I am also thankful to Prof. A.P. Barnabas of Indian Institute of Public Administration, New Delhi and Prof. S.P. Ruhela of the Himachal Pradesh University, Simla, for their suggestions which were duly incorporated in Chapter-I and Chapter-XI respectively. I express my gratitude to Dr. K.S.R.N. Sama and Dr. S. Masmudar, Readers of the Indian Institute of Public Administration, New Delhi and Dr. D. Sarkar, Economist of National Council of Applied Economic Research for consultations with regard to statistical application in the study.

I am indebted to the Librarians of the Indian Institute of Advanced Studies, Simla National Institute of Community Development, Hyderabad; Panjab University, Chandigarh Social Science Documentation Centre, New Delhi, and Indian Institute of Public Administration, New Delhi. I express my gratitude to Shri Mohinder Singh, Librarian, Indian Institute of Public Administration, New Delhi, for going through the Bibliography of this thesis.
I express my sincere gratitude to Shri V. Ramakrishna, Assistant Registrar, Indian Institute of Public Administration, New Delhi, for taking special interest in the completion of the study. I am thankful to Miss Kamlesh Kakkar and Shri S.P. Sharma for typing the manuscript of the thesis.

I take responsibility for the observations/findings that have emerged in the study as a result of interpretation of available data including interviews. The entire exercise has been completed in academic interest and with bias towards none.

(ASHOK RANJAN BASU)