ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am deeply grateful to Dr. N. K. Oberoi, Reader, Department of English, Panjab University, Chandigarh, for his so immaculately and enlighteningly guiding me in this research work. Dr. Oberoi has always been readily sparing time — often at my convenience and his inconvenience — to discuss various subject-related points and problems with me. He has always been bearing with me for my aberrations and rather strenuous demands. Words, indeed, go abegging in putting my deep gratitude in black and white and I can just simply say here that I shall remain grateful to Dr. Oberoi in all days to come for his so meticulously, painstakingly, assiduously and conscientitiously supervising my work.

I would also like to express my gratitude to

S. Umrao Singh, President Malwa Education Council and its other members, Principal Jagmohan Singh, Officiating Principal R. D. Gupta, for their granting leave to me from time to time and for their generous help and kind permission to me to attend various seminars on literature and to visit different universities, academic centres & libraries in the country.
Ch. Jagdish Chand, Librarian, Malwa College, Boudi Samrala; Panjab University Library and Staff; Librarian, English Department Library; Panjab University Extension Library and Staff; the Director, the Librarian and the Staff of Vedic Sahitya Sadam, Hoshiarpur for their readily making available books and materials to me.

Dean College Development Council and D.U.I. Panjab University, Chandigarh for their generous grant in token of financial assistance for this project.

Dr. V. R. Kanadey Professor and Chairman, Department of English, Nagpur University, Nagpur for his word of encouragement and learned talk.

Above all, Sri Aurobindo Ashram Pondicherry, especially, its Publications Department and its saint-scholars, K. D. Sethna and M. P. Pandit, for their scholarly discourses and for making available to me various books and materials on Sri Aurobindo.

Mr. Ramesh Kumar Shaili for his so carefully typing my thesis.

And last but not least, my wife, Santosh and children, Navita, Amit and Rohit without whose help and encouragement this work could not have been carried out.
