ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am duty-bound at the end of an exhaustive academic experience to record and thank all those who have helped me in various ways to prepare the thesis.

I am grateful to Dr Rachel Bari, my teacher and the supervisor of the thesis. She has constantly extended her support; her encouraging words have provided constant impetus and strength to carry out this project. Her apt and timely guidelines and the corrections have made it possible for me to maintain the standards required of a research work.

Dr Rajendra Chenni, my teacher at the post graduation level, continued to teach and guide me to prepare the thesis. His ideas, thoughts, suggestions, corrections and goodness were indeed a great help. His keen interest in my academic progress needs a special mention.

Indeed, I was fortunate to have Dr Ashok D’Souza, my friend and well-wisher, whose helping hand has only made me to think that I can be at ease in any situation; however, difficult it might be. Mrs Anitha D’Souza reflected the extension of Dr Ashok’s goodness. Master Ashish was a great young friend in my journey.

I am thankful to Dr William Da Silva for sharing his thoughts and offering me to use his well set personal library at my convenience. His classes on research methodology (a semester course which was offered by him for fifteen members on every Sunday afternoon for more than six months) have had a marking impression on me. He has motivated me to take the thesis work seriously.

Fr Prashanth Madtha S. J. was generous enough to offer his views especially, in the initial stage of the preparation of the thesis. He lent me books of great worth.

My teachers Dr Nagya Nayak, Mr Dattatreya and Prof. Veerappa Gowda have helped me in different ways. They have shown great affection. Their advice has made me feel comfortable.

Mr Anil Pinto has helped me at different levels. We had discussions; he has provided me with various reading material, especially, the translated works of Shivarama Karanth and Ananthamurthy.

I am thankful to certain scholars: Dr R. Shashidhar, Dr Pramod K. Nayar, Mr Raghavendra, Dr Mahalinga Bhat, Dr Shivaram Shetty, Dr Robert Jose, Dr Surendra Rao, Dr Keshavan, Dr Raja Ram Tholpady, Dr Rajalakshmi, Dr Somayaji Pattabhi, Dr Damodara Shetty, Dr Dominic, Prof. Hayavadana Upadhyya, Dr Vishwanath Badikana, Dr Denis Fernandes and Dr Kishor Kumar Rai Sheni who were benevolent to make available their views in the various discussions that I had with them.

Mr Naveen Mascarenhas, Mr Kishor D'Silva, Mr Triambakeshwara, Mr Girish N, Mr Ravichandra, Mr Raju and Mr Manoj Machado have helped me immensely. They have reduced the weight of the yoke. Dr Richard Gonsalves, Mr Arul Mascares, Mr Manohar Concessao, Mr Venkatarajesh, Ms Suneetha, Mr Prakash Saldanha, Mr Hari Prasad, Mr Shyam Prasad, Mr Vijeth Nayak, Mr Sachet Suvarna, Dr Ganesh Amin, Mr Pradeep, Mrs Reena Monteiro and Mr Somashekara Nayak have encouraged me to carry on my work.

I have been lucky to have got access to the libraries of St Aloysius College, St Aloysius PU College, Pompei College, IGNOU Study Centre of St Aloysius College, Kuvempu University, Mangalore University, Christ University and Centre for Society and Cultural Studies (CSCS), Bangalore. Navakarnataka Publications and Distributors of Mangalore branch have always responded swiftly to my orders for the books. Mr George Rodrigues and the staff of St Aloysius College library have rendered me a great service.

My mom, aunt Eliza and my brother Charles, Mrs Shoby, my wife and Nidhi, my daughter have helped me to carry on my studies with great convenience. Many more have stretched their helping hands, all those who have been mentioned and not mentioned in the acknowledgement very well deserve my gratitude.
