Perhaps, the difficult task for a Researcher is to credit the intellectuals and dear and near ones, who have given me moral boost and valuable material support. In fact, without the minimum sacrifice of a number of men and women, the thesis would not have been carried out in such a proper manner.

I sincerely acknowledge the valuable suggestions and guidance by my research guide Dr. C.S. Nanjundaiah, who introduced me to the world of Ngugi wa Thiong’o and K. Chinnappa Bharathi.

I also acknowledge sincerely the friendship and encouragement of Sri. K. Chinnappa Bharathi, Namakkal, whose novels I have taken up for research. I owe my gratitude to Sri. Palaniswamy, Namakkal, the real guru of Chinnappa Bharathi; whom I consider a Wordsworthian leach gatherer. In fact, he rejuvenated my writing by dismantling the wrong notions of my thinking. I acknowledge with gratitude, Dr. G. Rajgopal, CIEFL, Hyderabad, for his undying inspiration and for shaping my thoughts.

Inspiration creates zeal and those who inspire to achieve that are great human beings. Prof. B. S. Sherigara, Vice Chancellor, Kuvempu University is one such a great human being. I thank him whole-heartedly. Dr. R. Uday Kumar, IFS, Registrar, Kuvempu University, inspired me in doing this research. I owe a sense of deep respect and gratitude to both of them.

Sri. Sri. Sri. Siddarama Desikendra Mahaswamiji, and late Sri Shivanna, President and Secretary respectively of the (previous) management of our college granted me permission to take up research work on external mode. I thank the authorities at the Collegiate Education for sanctioning permission to me. I thank Prof. B. Jayadevappa, Principal of my college for his encouragement.

I owe my debt of gratitude to Dr. Rajendra Chenni, Chairman, (B.O.S.) Department of English, Kuvempu University, for his vigilant attention to my writing. I thank Dr. Rachal Bari, Chairperson, Department of English, Kuvempu University, for her co-operation.

I remember with respect, Dr. P. Basavaiah, my father in-law, whose valuable suggestions made me go on with my research work with more vigor. I acknowledge Prof. A. Mallikarjuna, Bellary and Dr. Mahapatra from Orissa, for their help.

A number of well-wishers and friends have helped me in many ways in my research work. I thank Prof. H.A. Bhixavarthimath, Prof. P.S. Sudhambica, Prof. G. Thimme gowda, Prof. B.M. Nirajana Murthy Dr. H. S. Nagabushana and Prof. Halasiddappa for their support. I honestly appreciate the untiring support of Mr. G. Ravi and thank him wholeheartedly for the same. I also thank Mr. Rajappa Thekale, for his encouragement.

I should remember the help and service extended to me by many Librarians and their staff. I acknowledge the Chief Librarians of Kuvempu University, Shankaraghatta, CIEFL, Hyderabad and Goa University, Goa for their help in material collection for my research. I also acknowledge the editors of various Websites for their updated information on the topic of my research.
I remember with love my wife Mrs. B. Sheela for taking pains in proof reading my thesis, and my dear children, Deepashree and Akash whose playful activities rejuvenated me.

I thank MVS Printers Shimoga for the DTP and printing of my thesis neatly. At the end I thank all those who have helped me either directly or indirectly in carrying out my research work successfully.
