Acknowledgements

I wish to express my heartfelt thanks to a number of people whose constructive support and warm encouragement has helped me in my pursuit; but, regretfully, it is possible to make a special mention of only some of them.

First and foremost, I take this opportunity to express my sincere gratitude and deep regards to my guide, Dr. Sangita Gupta (H.O.D.) who has supported me wholeheartedly throughout my thesis with all her patience and perseverance whilst allowing me room to work in my own way. I attribute the quality of work to her encouragement, excellent guidance, expert advice and inspiration. Without her support, this work would not have been possible. One simply could not wish for a better, more competent and a friendlier guide.

I owe my deepest gratitude to my colleague Dr. Pyali Arora who has been extraordinarily tolerant and supportive. Without her guidance and persistent help, my research work would not have been accomplished. Her constant help and constructive advice in formulating the research methodology, analysis and interpretations, is precious to me. She has always offered much needed words of wisdom, encouragement and direction, whenever needed.

I am indebted to my brother-in-law, R.L. Magotra, PVSM, VSM, for his continuous support in my work. He gave me very useful ideas and suggestions at each and every stage during the course of my work. His motivation and immense knowledge have been invaluable. I could not have imagined accomplishing my research without his unfailing encouragement and support.

I would like to express my sincere gratitude to my school mate, Mr. Navin, who profoundly supported me throughout the entire study patiently. I admire his amazing and invaluable ability and competence while supporting me in completing this task through various stages. I am extremely grateful to have a friend like him who in spite of his own hectic schedule was willing to spare time in pursuit of my work.

I express my sincere gratitude to the Principal of our College, Dr. Koushal Samotra, for her unwavering support for my research. Her unflinching co-operation strengthened my confidence and motivated me to attain my goal.

I would like to express the deepest appreciation to Akhilesh Padha, Website Developer, Mahesh-Infotech, Jammu, who selflessly involved himself in assisting me for developing the web site “Vidyakrit”. Without his constant help this project would not have been possible.

I also wish to put on record my special thanks to all my colleagues, and friends who spared their valuable time to assist me whenever I needed their help. Their vibrant and stimulating exchange of ideas enabled me to design my survey tool. My brother Dr. C.M. Seth; Dr. Shashi Koul, H.O.D. Home Science Department, Government College for Women; Dr. Lovi Padha; Dr. Bharti, Assistant Professor, Department of Psychology, Central University, Jammu; Dr. Sanjay Sharma, Associate Professor, Department of Environmental Science, University of Jammu, Jammu are some important names who were good counsellors and deserve thanks.

The library and computer facilities extended by the staff of Department of Library and Information Science, Jammu University, as well as Kashmir University, Government PG College of Education, Canal Road (Jammu) and personal help of some of my friends from INFLIBNET Centre, Ahmedabad and Bhopal, in sharing their resources, have been indispensable.

I extend my regards to the Principal and the Staff of various Colleges of Jammu Division, for trusting me and rendering full co-operation in the collection of data.

I am also highly obliged to the staff of Higher Education Department, J&K Government for supplying me all the necessary information pertaining to college profiles of Jammu Division and other primary resources.
Finally, I remain highly indebted to my parents and family members, whose unwavering support and inspiration helped me in accomplishing my task. Last but not the least, my greatest appreciation and gratitude goes to my husband, Hemant Sharma, who was always a great support and a source of inspiration in my struggles and sleepless nights. I thank him for helping me think positively and for being a patient listener.

Above all, with great reverence I bow my head to my Supreme Master who was the eternal force behind me.
