This study was started under the supervision of Professor Jagdish Chandra. But before it was half-way through, he died. I dedicate this work to his memory, as a token of my gratitude for his stimulating interest during the short period that he supervised my dissertation.

I am deeply indebted to Professor D.D. Jyoti who agreed to supervise my work. His keen interest and able guidance helped me a lot in the completion of this study. I owe especial thanks to Professor B.K. Kalia, my former teacher, whose high scholarly ideals have always been a source of inspiration to me. In the course of this work I constantly drew upon his advice and knowledge.

Thanks are due also to my brother Ravindra N. Sharma, at present Librarian at Beaver Campus, Pennsylvania, U.S.A., for his generous assistance in keeping me supplied with books, articles and other research material not available here, without which this work would not have been possible.

(Surrender Nath)