It is with utmost humility that I thank my respected supervisor and beloved teacher, Dr. K.D. Sharma, of the Department of Geography, Panjab University, Chandigarh. The many hours of discussion, advice and patient guidance have enriched this study. I acknowledge his help with a deep sense of debt and gratitude.

Words of gratitude also go to the esteemed faculty and staff of the Department of Geography, Panjab University, Chandigarh, for their constant encouragement; to the Patra, Parikh and George families in Bhubaneswar, Ahmadabad and Vadodara respectively, for their help and hospitality during field visits; to the personnel of numerous offices and organizations; to Mrs. Sathee Prabhakaran for typing the manuscript; to Mr. Mohan Singh for his cartographic skills, and to my many friends for their helping hands and warm hearts.

It would be impossible to adequately express my gratitude to my family, my biggest source of strength. Their unconditional love and support have seen this work through. I also humbly thank the Lord Almighty for his amazing grace.

(Pippa Maryann Deodhar)

Chandigarh
8.02.2000