ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

In the preparation of this thesis, I have received enormous help from several quarters. At the outset, I wish to express my deep sense of gratitude to my Professor and Guide Dr. K. Ramachandran, but for whose whole-hearted support, co-operation and unfailing help, the thesis would not have come out in the present form. I am extremely grateful to my esteemed teacher, Dr. V.J. Naidu, Reader in Economics, S.V. University Tirupati, who was generous enough to help me with his proficiency and competence in quantitative Economics. I am also thankful to Dr. P. Ibrahim, Reader and Dr. S. Harikumar, of this department, for their kind co-operation and constant encouragement. I am grateful to Dr. S. Irudaya Rajan, Research Associate, Centre for Development Studies, Trivandrum and Dr. C. Radhakrishnan Nair, Department of Economics, Kerala University, for their advice and valuable suggestions.

I am thankful to the staff of District Medical Offices, Primary Health Centres and Sub-centres at Kottayam and Wynad. I am also grateful to the librarians and staff of International Institute of Population Sciences, Tata Institute of Social Science and Jawaharlal Nehru University Library at Bombay, S.V. University library, Tirupati and Centre for Development Studies, Trivandrum.

I am indebted to Miss. C.M. Sreekala, Mr. J. Manoj Mr. M.P. Preman and other non-teaching staff members of the department for their support and encouragement in completing this piece of work. I would be failing in my duty, if I do not acknowledge my gratitude to my friends Miss. K.K. Preethi, Mr. S. Tiruvenkitasamy and well-wishers around me, who rendered assistance of various kinds to enable me to bring this dissertation to a proper shape.
My thanks are also due to Mr. A. Nandanan, Proprietor, Anooa's Institute of Commerce, Mahe and Miss. P. Renuka, Typist for the neat and prompt electronic typing and zeroxing of this thesis.

My indebtedness is beyond words to my husband, Mr. Varkeychan for his encouragement, patient and continuous help which he rendered in ample dosses in spite of his pressing official engagements and to my kid who was denied the comforts of childhood due to my pre-occupation with research. I express my indebtedness to my parents and family members who extended me all kinds of co-operation and encouragement throughout the study. Last but not the least, I thank the Almighty for helping me to complete this piece of work in the midst of adversities.
