ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I express my sincere and profound gratitude and indebtedness to my guide and supervisor Dr. M V Srinivasa Gowda, Professor and Head, Department of Economics, University of Agricultural Sciences, Bangalore not only for his invaluable guidance, critical comments and creative suggestions given, but also for his interest, patience and untiring efforts shown at each and every stage of my research work.

Thanks are due to Prof. S. Govinda Gowda, Associate Professor of Sociology, UAS, Bangalore, Prof. Srikanta Kudige, Kuvempu University, C Puttaswamy, Freelance Journalist and G A Purushothama Gowda, Former Special Secretary, Legislative Council, Karnataka for their moral support in the completion of the present thesis. I express my sense of gratitude to Mrs Sarala Krishna Gowda, for executing the typing work neatly and timely.

I acknowledge my affectionate thanks to all my friends and well wishers, especially Mr. S Puttaswamaiah and Mr. B Krishna Gowda Research Scholars, Mr Krishna Gowda N and Mr D Nagaraju Research Assistants, ISEC, Shivappa Hinchavalli T V Suresh, PSI, Raju, ACF, Dr Ramesh, Mr. Shivakumar, Prof Chandrashekar, Prof. Shankar Narayana Rao, Dr. K G Suresh Kumar, K Krishnamurthy, T Balaram, The Principal, staff and students of V V Puram college of Law for their encouragement and continuous support given in completing the present thesis.

I am thankful to the library staff of Institute for Social and Economic Change, UAS, Bangalore University, Aranyabhavan, and IIMB, Bangalore for their invaluable help in providing the relevant reports and documents for preparing the present thesis.

My thanks are due to the various Heads and Staff members of Forest Department, and the respondents of the sample blocks in Shimoga district, where I conducted the fieldwork for the kind co-operation extended by them in completing my research work.

Last but not the least, I owe my sincere gratitude and thanks to my parents and family members for their heartfelt co-operation, encouragement and support in completing the present research work.

Bangalore
October, 2001

M R Subramanya