ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The printed pages of this dissertation hold far more than the culmination of years of study. These pages also reflect the relationships with many generous and inspiring people I have met since the beginning of my research work. The list is long, but I cherish each contribution to my development as a scholar.

First and foremost I want to thank my Research Guide and supervisor Dr. P.C. Shejwalkar. It has been an honour to be his 82nd Ph.D. student. A gracious mentor who demonstrates that rigorous scholarship can and must be accessible to everyone, that social change is central to intellectual work and as such, scholars have a responsibility to use the privileges of academia to imagine and create a better world.

He has taught me, both consciously and un-consciously, how good research work in Customer Satisfaction Studies is done. I appreciate all his contributions of time, ideas, and trust to make my Ph.D. experience productive and stimulating. The joy and enthusiasm, he has for his research was contagious and motivational for me, even during tough times in the Ph.D. pursuit. I am also thankful for the excellent example he has provided, as a humble human being and as a successful professor.

I would like to acknowledge, with grateful thanks, the appropriate advice I got from the members of Research and Recognition Committee, at the time of my three presentations, as required under the rules. Dr. A.R. Keskar, Academic Dean of Symbiosis International University, Dr. Rajni Gupte, Dean of the Faculty of Management, Dr. Ashok Joshi, Member of the R. R. Committee and Dean of the Faculty of management in the University of Pune, Dr. Ravi Chitnis, Director of MIT School of Management, Dr. U. N. Limaye, the visiting faculty Member of the Institute of Management Education and my Research Guide Dr. P. C. Shejwalkar as a member of the Research and Recognition Committee.

The advice given by the Expert Committee was always well carried out by me under the supervision of my Research Guide. I very much appreciate their enthusiasm, intensity, willingness to guide and whose positive, informed and encouraging nature has been an inspiration throughout.

I would like to thank my colleagues and co-workers at Sahyadri Graphics Pvt. Ltd, who have shouldered an increased workload, while I have been otherwise occupied. In particular, I wish to note the encouragement and support of Sachin, Alice and Elcid by sharing, many of my day to day tasks at the office throughout the period of my research work. I wish to note in particular, Vijay Bandre, for creating those amazing typography layouts and graphics and for being there at all times, Ganesh Shelar, for taking me around the town with a smile, as and when, and as many times I needed to criss-cross. To my invaluable network of supportive, forgiving, generous and loving friends without whom I could not have survived the process.

And most of all to my dearest friend, my cheerleader, my loving, supportive, encouraging and patient wife Nima, whose faithful support during all the stages of this Ph.D. is so much appreciated. Thank you.

Dinesh Kamath
Symbiosis International University
November 2011