I would like to record here my deep sense of gratitude to my guides, Dr. N.S. Prabhu and Professor L.S. Seshagiri Rao for their sustained and enriching interaction on this research project.

This project could not have been undertaken without the initial support of Sri. W. S. Bhasker, then Head, Department of English and Dr. G.S. Shivarudrappa, Dean of the Languages Division, Bangalore University. I would like to thank them both for making this research administratively feasible. Also, I would like to thank the Director, Regional Institute of English, Bangalore for granting me leave for two years to complete this thesis.

My thanks are due to the members of the Discourse Analysis Group, Bangalore, especially Dr. Esther Ramani, Michael Joseph and Usha Rajaram for their intellectual and moral support all through this project. My special thanks are to Dr. Esther Ramani who, under difficult circumstances, has contributed considerably to the revision and presentation of this thesis.

I would like to thank all the Kannada teachers who have helped me, an outsider to their teaching community, in their role as informants. Their experience and insight have been invaluable. Specifically I would like to acknowledge here the informed and insightful consultations offered by Dr.K.V.Narayana and Sri.H.S.Raghavendra Rao at various stages during my research.

My particular thanks should go to Sri.K.N.Ramesh for his competent and patient typing of the thesis. I would like to thank to Sri.Jinendra Kumar for typing the Kannada text of this thesis. I am grateful to Dr.R.V. Raghavendra and his family for making the production of this thesis an enjoyable experience.

Finally I would like to express my deep gratitude to the members of my family, especially to my mother-in-law, Smt.Gowramma and my aunt, Smt.Saraswathi Anand for providing the physical and emotional sustenance which has made this research possible.
