ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

My felicity knows no bounds in recording my sense of gratitude to Dr. K. Venkata Reddy, Reader in the Department of Rural Development, Sri Krishnadevaraya University, Ananthapur, who has extended his maximum help in the selection of the topic and who took meticulous care in putting me on the right track during the process of my work. The work could not have been completed without his immeasurable and timely guidance and valuable suggestions.

I am thankful to Dr. H. Tirupati Naidu, Professor and Head of the Department of Rural Development, Sri Ch. Uma Mohan, Lecturer in Rural Development, Sri Krishnadevaraya University, Ananthapur for various types of help received from them.

I am equally very much indebted and grateful to the management of Tirumala Tirupati Devasthanams, Tirupati, the then Devasthanam Educational Officer and the present Registrar of Sri Padmavathi Mahila Vishvavidyalaya, Tirupati, Sri B. Rangaiah and Mrs. K. P. Kamala Menon, Principal, Sri Padmavathi Women's College for permitting me to take up this research work and extending their wholehearted co-operation in the successful completion of this research work.
I am extremely grateful to my husband who has given timely help, assistance, counselling and guidance throughout this period of study without which this research work would not have attained its present form.

Finally, I am grateful to both working and non-working women, Tirupati town, who have co-operated with me in giving information for the dissertation.
