ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

“Gratitude is a duty which ought to be paid, but which none has a right to expect.” How often do we utter the word ‘thanks’? It is a seldom-used word in the dictionary of life. People don’t remember to thank for the good things in life. Either we deliberately forget or we are not aware of its importance. Thanking is the most beautiful flower that arises in one’s soul and the receiver’s heart is filled by its fragrance.

I, foremost, thank God Almighty for blessing me with enough determination, patience and perseverance: much needed qualities to do research. Among ‘human soul’ a big acknowledgement goes to my guide Dr. Meshram N. G. who really consented for this topic. I thank him for his faith and belief in my abilities. It was this trust which kept me going. I thank him for all his moral boosting, support and precious time.

I am deeply thankful to JJT, University Rajasthan who gave me an opportunity to do this research work. I am also thankful to respected Dr. Vinod Tibrewala, Dr.D.D. Agrawal, Vice Chancellor of JJT University. I express my thanks to Dr. Jitendra, Preeti Madam, Dr. S. K. Yadav, Dr. Sanjay Madan, Dr. Anju Singh, Prof.Rakhee, Dr.Satyavir Singh, Mrs.Valecha and Mr. Gopinath of JJT University, who have encouraged and co-operated during the period of this study.

I thank library staff of J.N.Library and the Library at Fort area – of Mumbai University; Asiatic Library and Jaykar Library of Pune University for their help in finding and making available access to the various sources.

I am thankful to all my friends, Prof. Vishnu Sarwade, Prof. Santosh Rathod, Prof. Dheeraj Deshmukh and Prof. Devendra Ranavare – for their encouragement, the discussions, the smiles and just for standing beside me.

I thank my parents and my wife for being there with me, for all the support and freedom they give without any grudge against me. Finally, I dedicate this work to my wife Kanchan, for being a constant source of my inspiration to do best in my life and face challenges with grit.

RAJU PATOLE.
