ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is a great pleasure for me to acknowledge here the contribution and help rendered by many people in the completion of this research work.

Ever since I joined Master Degree in the Department of Economics, Bangalore University, Bangalore, research issues concerning manpower planning in general and primary education sector in particular interested me enormously. Incidentally, I have taken up the research topic on Manpower Planning in Primary Education in Karnataka under the supervision of Late Prof. S.N. Nanje Gowda and the thesis for M.Phil was successfully completed. It was due to his constant encouragement that the present study was ventured for Ph.D. I wish to place on record my respectful thanks to Prof. S.N. Nanje Gowda.

Dr. R.G. Desai, Professor, Department of Economics, Bangalore University, Bangalore, was instrumental in encouraging research in the field of Manpower Planning. It was due to his inspiration that I opted for Manpower Planning in M.Phil. I wish to extend my heart felt thanks to him.

The confidence gained by working on the issue encouraged me to request Dr. S.Erappa, Assistant Professor, Agricultural Development and Rural Transformation Unit, Institute for Social and Economic Change, Bangalore to be my Ph.D supervisor. The valuable guidance and incisive comments and suggestions of Dr. S.Erappa have helped me in the completion of this research work. He has been a source of constant inspiration and guiding spirit and has helped right from the beginning of the research work through its completion. In this context, I am highly grateful and indebted to Dr. Erappa.
Dr. R. Veerachamy, Chairman, Department of Economics, Bangalore University, Bangalore, kindled my interest in the field of quantitative techniques and prompted me to make generous use of the same for the thesis. He has taken special interest in the progress of this work and its successful completion. I am greatly thankful to him.

I am indebted to Dr. N. Rangaswamy, former Chairman, Department of Economics, Bangalore University for his valuable comments and suggestions during the forwarding of progress reports. I also wish to thank Mrs. K. K. Seethamma, Professor, Department of Economics, Bangalore University, who evinced keen interest in the progress of the work and was readily available for the much needed suggestions and comments.

Dr. N. Rajashekaran deserves a special note of thanks for carefully going through the draft chapters and offering valuable suggestions.

Dr. Usha Ramkumar, Assistant Professor, Institute for Social and Economic Change, Bangalore evinced keen interest in the work and her motherly concern for the work went a long way to help me successfully complete it.

Thanks are due to the managements and staff of all the sample schools in Bangalore North II and Kanakapura Taluks, who spared their valuable time to provide information for the project.

Thanks are due to all officials of the Department of Public Instruction, Government of Karnataka for their assistance and cooperation in collection of secondary data for the project.
Mr. S. Shankar, Staff of B M English School, was actively involved in the project from the beginning to the end. I wish to thank him for all the effort he put in. Thanks are due to Ms. Pushpalatha, Ms. Hemavathi and Ms. Thamarai, staff of Softy, Computer Division of BM School for their help in data entry, typesetting and design.

Finally, I express my heartfelt thanks to the members of my family, my parents, wife and son, who provided the much needed encouragement for the successful completion of the work.

S. Rajesh
