ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This thesis on 'Administration of Military Justice in India' embodies the result of the research pursued under the supervision of Dr. Narender Kumar, Professor, Department of Laws, Panjab University, Chandigarh. I wish to express my deep sense of gratitude to him who had not only shown an immense interest with the subject matter but also had given me his precious time in guiding me throughout the preparation of this work. It has been a matter of immense pleasure to me to be benefited by his scholarly and erudite guidance. Without his wise and sound consultation, the study would not have progressed in the right direction. I am deeply grateful to him.

My heartfelt thanks are due to Dr. V.K. Bansal, Dr. Bal Krishan, the former chairmen and Dr. Kulwant Gill, the present Chairperson of the Department of law, Panjab University, Chandigarh, who always were kind enough listening to my views on the subject and helping me in completing my assignment in a most congenial environment.

I wish to express my gratitude to Major General Nilendra Kumar, Vishist Seva Medal, the Judge Advocate General (Army) for his kind help and inspiration during the preparation of this work.

I also wish to extend my gratitude to Brigadier Ashok Taskar, Sena Medal, who always was considerate in allowing me to accomplish my work.

My thanks are also due to the staff of law libraries at the Panjab University, Chandigarh, Army Head Quarters (Judge Advocate General’s Department), Office of the Deputy Judge Advocate General Department, HQ Western Command, Delhi University and the Indian Law Institute, New Delhi for their extreme cooperation in making available their books, journals and other relevant material on the subject.
