ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

“Guru is regarded as the trinity of God Brahma, Vishnu and Mahesh; even then Guru is regarded as a Supreme being ‘Parabrahman’ and hence I pay obeisance to my Guru.”

“By devotion to teacher one can have the twofold knowledge, worldly and spiritual alike, and hence there is no one greater than the teacher and, therefore, one must respect one’s teacher.”

Shankd Purána, Uttarkhand (81)

With the grace of the Almighty, the ever-showering blessings of my parents and teachers, and the wishes of my wife, son and friends, I have been able to complete this work. I was able to understand the true spirit of these verses only when I did research work under the esteemed guidance of Dr. Veer Singh, the former Vice-Chancellor of NALSAR, Hyderabad, the former Professor, Departments of Laws, Panjab University, presently the Director (Academics), Chandigarh Judicial Academy, Chandigarh. It had been the most enriching experience and the life time opportunity for me to give shape to my future and to develop my analytical ability. My head bows before him in reverence, whenever I think about the unique and ever inspiring way in which he encouraged me towards the initiation, continuance and the culmination of this task.

I am highly grateful to Dr. Varinder Kumar, Emeritus Fellow, University Grant Commission, New Delhi, Dr. R. S. Grewal, former Director, University Institute of Legal Studies, Panjab University, Dr. P. S. Jaswal, Departments of Laws, Panjab University, at present the Vice Chancellor, Rajiv Gandhi National University of Law, Patiala, Dr. Nishta Jaswal, the Chairperson, Departments of Laws, Panjab University, Dr. Sangita Bhalla, the Director, University Institute of Legal Studies, Panjab University, and other faculty members of the Departments of Laws, Panjab University, who have always been the source of constant inspiration and guidance to me.

I express my thanks to Library Staff of the Department of Laws, University Institute of Legal Studies, and the A C Joshi library, Panjab University, for their valuable assistance.

On this occasion, I express my feelings of gratitude to my wife Anju and my son Poojan for they sacrificed a lot to enable me to work for this cause. I express heart-felt gratitude to my friends Geeta Bhatti, Varun Nagpal, Kapil Singla and my mentor Sh. Lokinder ji and other colleagues for their help and effervescent attitude of motivation, which kept me in a never-say-die spirit.

My head bows with reverence before my parents, whose self-effacing and untiring efforts take me towards the utmost spirit of honesty, commitment and truthfulness. ‘Aaradhana’ i.e. the prayer of God, has always been a constant source of inspiration for me to fight against all evils, to make an attempt to lead a life of Karmashrestha and Dharma Bharata to adhere to the principles of utmost truthfulness, honesty, the greatest sense of devotion towards the humankind, the nation and then the society. I think it is in this perspective that the role of a human being as a useful part of the humanity should be viewed.

Above all, I pay obeisance to the ‘Almighty’ for showering his blessings to accomplish this august task. My unflinching faith in justice delivered to all, enables me to cross over all the difficulties and attain success in all spheres of life.
