Acknowledgement

It is with deep appreciation and sincere gratitude that I thank and recognize those who supported me and believed in my research.

Individually, special thanks goes to my guide Professor (Dr) Meenu Paul for believing in me, chairing my thesis, reading my drafts, editing, offering suggestions, providing encouragement and allowing me to progress at my own pace; showing interest in my professional and individual growth, and providing the final push that led to the completion of this thesis.

I pay my gratitude to Chairperson and faculty members of Deptt. of Panjab University, Chandigarh, for their unconditional help throughout the execution of this work. I also wish to thank my committee, which has provided guidance, encouragement, critical reading of the proposal, and suggestions from conception to completion. I am gratefully thankful to law students of Deptt. of Laws and U.I.L.S, Panjab University, Chandigarh who spared their precious time, and not only agreed to be interviewed but also shared their knowledge and experience.

Words of thanks are also due to the Library staff of – Deptt. of Laws, Panjab University, Chandigarh; Deptt of Correspondence studies, Kurukshetra University, Kurukshetra; Pondicherry University, Pondicherry; Osmania University Hyderabad; NALSAR University of Law, Hyderabad; Jiwaji University, Gwalior National Law School of India University, Bangalore; for allowing me to use the available sources and thus granting an extensive help in completion of this work. Thanks are due to the authors of all sources which I have used or quoted.

Thanks are also due to my family members for their unconditional support. My mother is a woman of incredible courage and strength who helped me by sharing those attributes and never allowing me to give up. She never once missed an opportunity to listen to me talk about my research, which she always followed with strong interest and praise. My father was with me every step of the way and unselfishly supported my work and efforts. Thanks are due to my sister who taught me how to embrace and enjoy research. And, to the many friends and relatives that listened and offered support, my heartfelt thanks.

To the students of Deptt. of Laws and UILS, Panjab University...THANK YOU! I am forever grateful. Finally, thanks to the all mighty for my existence.
