ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I acknowledge with sincere gratitude my indebtedness to Dr. M.L. Tandon, Reader, Department of Commerce and Business Management, Panjab University, Chandigarh without whose unstinted guidance and ungrudging help the present work would never have been completed. He was so easily accessible, ever ready to dispel my doubts and dispel the enveloping gloom and gathering despair and propel me on to the pursuit of my research goal. In him I had a true friend, philosopher and guide all during this period of about three years of my stay with him. I also owe a word of sincere thanks to the members of his family for their magnanimity in extending hospitality to me in such a liberal measure.

To Dr. T.N. Kapoor, Dean of the Faculty of Business Management and Commerce, my debt is profound. My grateful thanks are also due to Dr. B.N. Mehrotra, Chairman of the Department, for his manifold assistance extended to me in times of need. I owe particular thanks to Dr. Gyan Chandra, a Visiting Professor in the Department from the U.S.A., for his kind assistance. My debt to Dr. S.D. Tripathi, Dr. C.P. Babu and Dr. S.P. Singh, all teachers of the Department, is no less.

I wish to place on record a special word of gratitude to the entire faculty of the Department of Commerce and Business Management for their general co-operation and assistance.
My grateful thanks are also due to the management of Bangladesh Shilpa Bank, Bangladesh Shilpa Rin Sangstha and Investment Corporation of Bangladesh for their active co-operation and ungrudging help in supplying the much-needed information and data. I wish to acknowledge my indebtedness to the concerned officers of these institutions for their helpful attitude.

The entrepreneurs interviewed deserve sincere appreciation for sparing their valuable time and providing me an insight into their perceptions about various matters and issues pertaining to the area of my research. The co-operation extended by the Federation of Bangladesh Chambers of Commerce and Industry in this connection is really noteworthy.

My thanks go to the management of Industrial Finance Corporation of India, Industrial Credit and Investment Corporation of India and Industrial Development Bank of India, Nepal Rashtra Bank, Nepal Industrial Development Corporation, Industrial Development Bank of Turkey, Industrial Finance Corporation of Thailand, Resident Mission of the World Bank (New Delhi) and Kreditanstalt fur Wiederaufbau of Federal Republic of Germany for their promptly responding to my requests for research materials and their publications.

Mrs. Shirley Boskey, Director, International Relations Department of the World Bank has helped me with some valuable information related to my research area. I will be failing in my duty if I do not give expression to my debt of gratitude to her.

The investigator is greatly appreciative of the library assistance rendered by the Development Banking Centre, Management Development Institute, New Delhi. He owes a considerable debt to Mr. C.V. Baxi, faculty member of the Centre for his valuable co-operation.

I am grateful to the Governments of Bangladesh and India for selecting me as also for providing me financial assistance under the Indo-Bangladesh Cultural and Academic Exchange Programme. The Chittagong University Authorities deserve my sincere thanks for granting me study leave for a period of three years.

Thanks are also due to Professor M.A.I. Khan, Professor S.S. Zoha, Dr. Meinul Islam and Professor A.J.M. Muruddin Chowdhury of Chittagong University, Dr. M. Habibullah, Dr. Maududur Rahman and Dr. A.H.M. Habibur Rahman of Dhaka University for their help and guidance.

To Mr. Ali Ahmed, a friend of mine and to Mr. Kazi Abul Kashem, my cousin, I express my sincere appreciation for their help. I can only collectively thank my many friends in Chandigarh for their co-operation and hospitality.

I must thank Mr. J.L. Bajaj who did the typing work with devotion and care.

Finally, I am grateful to my respected mother and my wife for their sharing patiently in the opportunity cost of this effort. I will be failing in my duty if I do not pledge to atone for the neglect that my sweet children, Baki and Mushfiq, suffered at my hands with such patience, forbearance and good cheer.

Needless to say, for any mistakes or omissions which a perusal of this study may reveal, the responsibility is entirely mine.
