ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I express my most cordial and humble thanks to respected guru and highly esteemed guide Dr. Sadhana Shahi, Assistant Professor, Dept. of Pharmaceutics, Government College of Pharmacy, Aurangabad. To thank her in words would not be sufficient. I am greatly indebted to her for his invaluable guidance and unflagging interest in every aspect of my work. Her personal care, deep involvement, stimulating discussions with humble and inspiring guidance throughout my research work, helped me in real sense to complete the story. Without her parental care, suggestions and support, this thesis would not have seen light of the day. It was a privilege and honor for me to work under him. Her boosting nature made me to work in the direction of research and to elaborate the research on the paper and in the laboratory. Her kind gesture and down to earth approach, at both professional and personal fronts have always given a knockout to my gloominess.

I am thankful to my teacher and philosopher Dr. Vinayak Deshmukh CEO, Yash Group of Institution, Sonai, for providing all the necessary requirements for carrying out the project. The discipline he imparted in my student life has become part of our habit now. The transformation he brought into behavior, study and lives of students without ever losing soft tone of his voice is remarkable.

A special thanks to Dr. Sunil Jalapure, Dr Prabhakar Kore basic science and research centre, KLE University Belgavi, Karnataka for allowing me to conduct part of research work at his centre and provided all the facilities required for research without any terms, which I would like to appreciate and bid hearty thank for his kind support and guidance. I owe my sincere thanks to Dr. H. F. Majmudar principal and Ex-principal Dr. S. S. Angadi, Yash Institute of pharmacy for their wholehearted support and encouragement during my project. I also express heartfelt thanks to Dr Zaheed Zaher, Principal, Y. B. Chavhan College of Pharmacym, Aurangabad, for providing the necessary facilities at the institute and treating me as the family. I would like to intentionally mention his kindness for providing the essential documents for completing the protocol of Ph. D registration.

I offer my sincere gratitude with the special mention of Dr. Dinesh Dhamech, Research Associate, Prabhakar Kore BSRC, KLE University, Belgaum, for supporting and making the nights hilarious with continuous research discussions and experiments to make the research to more perfection. His help during studies, thesis drafting is beyond capacity of words.
