This thesis has been completed under the joint supervision of Dr. O. P. Bagai, Professor of Statistics and Dr. J. N. Joshi, Professor of Education at the Panjab University, Chandigarh. I am profoundly grateful to them for their painstaking guidance and uninhibited assistance extended to me during the entire period of the preparation of this thesis.

I am personally obliged to Dr. (Miss) Sudesh Gakhar, Reader, Department of Education, the Panjab University for permitting me to use the correlation matrices from her Ph.D thesis. I am grateful to her in offering valuable suggestions to improve the quality of the thesis pertaining to the study of ID dimensions.

The University Grants Commission (U.G.C.), New Delhi awarded me Teacher-Fellowship under the FTP Scheme for the period August 1977 - March 1981 to pursue first M.Phil and then the present research work. The substantial part of this work was completed during this period. My thanks are due to the U.G.C., to Seth Satya Paul of APGBE, JAY group, Principal O.P. Mohan and Professor K.L. Sharma of Doaba College, Jalandhar, for granting me leave for the said period, and to Dr. O.P. Bagai (the then Head, of the Department of Statistics) but for whose co-operation and efforts the securing of Teacher Fellowship would not have been possible. I am also thankful to all the members of the faculty.
(including Dr. J. V. Deshpande, present Chairman) in the Department of Statistics for extending me all possible assistance in their respective capacities.

This thesis involves extensive computer work. For this I would like to record my sincerest thanks to the authorities of the Panjab University for having permitted me to avail of free facilities at the Regional Computer Centre (DEC-2050), Sector-17, Chandigarh and to the Director, Delhi University Computer Centre (IBM 360), Delhi. In the preparation and execution of computer programmes on DEC-2050, I was assisted by Mr. S.K. Gandhi of the Department of Physics and by Mr. C.M. Bahl and Mr. Surinder Kumar Kohindru of the Computer Centre of the Panjab University, Chandigarh. My thanks are also due to these gentlemen for their assistance.

I express my sincerest thanks to my wife Sudesh and Mr. Surinder K. Monga, HCS (Haryana State) for constantly encouraging me, and to Professor D.D. Bibra, Head, Post Graduate Department of English, Doaba College for having assisted me to edit the rough draft of some chapters of this thesis.

Lastly, I express my thanks to Mr. M. K. Bedi for having typed this thesis.

\[ \text{(Yesh Pal)} \]

August 1983