ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The initiation of research work demands continuous goading and guidance. Its completion needs necessary but constant supervision and direction in many ways. In this respect, I was lucky to have Dr. (Mrs.) M.K.S. Singh, Professor, Department of Laws, Panjab University, Chandigahr as my supervisor. Inspite of her busy academic schedule, she was most generous with her time and undertook the ordeal of going through the manuscript, I have been a fortunate recipient of her guidance at all stages of the work. Her comments on each chapter added to the better appreciation of each problem and its solution. I owe her a deep debt of gratitude not repayable in any form. But for her guidance the work would not have been accomplished in this form.

I shall be failing in my duty if I do not thank Dr. P. Divan, Chairman, Department of Laws, Panjab University, Chandigarh for his help and guidance.

I am grateful to Dr. Mira Singh, Director, National Institute of Social Defence, New Delhi, Sh. K.C. Shensar and Sh. S.S. Gill, Former Inspectors-General of Prisons, Punjab, the present incumbent Sh. T.C. Katoch and the Registrar, Punjab and Haryana High Court for their kind permission to examine the relevant record and interview the concerned officials, and expression of their views on various problems confronting the functioning of probation.
Miss S.K. Keath, Chief Probation Officer, Punjab and all the District Probation Officers and their staff deserve special appreciation for their help and co-operation in the collection of data, conduct of interviews and field visits. I am indebted to all those Judicial Officers, Advocates and probationers who obliged me by expressing their views on the respective aspects of the work.

My sincere thanks are due to Sh. S.S. Kehra, my colleague and my wife, Savinderjit Kaur, who undertook the ordeal of checking the manuscript, preparing the bibliography and Table of cases, and made valuable suggestions in the presentation of the work in the present form.

I am highly obliged to Sh. S.R. Kataria for typing the thesis with great care, patience and accuracy.
