Acknowledgements

This thesis arose in part out of years of research that has been done since Dr. Parag A. Kulkarni came to College of Engineering, Pune as Adjunct Professor. By that time, I have worked with a great number of people whose contribution in assorted ways to the research and the making of the thesis deserved special mention. It is a pleasure to convey my gratitude to them all in my humble acknowledgement.

In the first place I would like to record my gratitude to Dr. Parag A. Kulkarni for his supervision, advice, and guidance from the very early stage of this research as well as giving me extraordinary experiences throughout the work. Above all and the most needed, he provided me uninning encouragement and support in various ways. His truly scientist intuition has made him as a constant oasis of ideas and passions in science, which exceptionally inspire and enrich my growth as a student, a teacher and a researcher want to be. I am indebted to him more than he knows. I gratefully acknowledge Dr. Anil D. Sahasrabudhe for his great support. His encouragement with his originality has triggered and nourished my intellectual maturity that I will benefit from, for a long time to come. Many thanks go in particular to Dr. M.S. Sutaone, Dr. M. A. Joshi and Dr. Jibi Abraham. I am much indebted for their valuable advice in technical discussion, supervision in writing thesis and furthermore. I have also benefited by advice and guidance from Prof. A. A. Sawant during throughout the research work. I gratefully thank Dr. S. N. Deshmukh, and Mr. V. K. Khatavkar for their constructive comments on this thesis and technical support.

Last, but not least, I would like to thank my parents for their loving support and help in so many ways, without which I would never have completed this work. I cannot thank enough my mother, wife Archana and my daughter Samiksha for their support, understanding and tolerance throughout the duration of my research studies.
