The doctoral journey at Shri Mata Vaishno Devi University for me has been an enriching and rewarding experience. I take this opportunity to express my gratitude and appreciation to all who helped me in moving towards my goal during this journey.

In completing this work, I have incurred intellectual indebtedness to many for their help and cooperation. The credit for provoking my interest in the present study and sustaining it by concretely backing the venture goes to my esteemed research co-supervisor, Prof. Piyush Kumar Sinha, Area Chair, Centre of Retailing, Indian Institute of Management, Ahmadabad, who helped and guided me at every step throughout this work. This has been a great source of inspiration in my work ever since and I can hardly find words to express my gratitude to him.

I express my sincere thanks to my supervisor, Dr. Hari Govind Mishra, who extended all support to me at different stages of my research work. His insight into my research work helped me to think differently. The development and improvement on the conceptual, methodological and analysis part of the thesis became possible because of the feedback and guidance provided by him.

I place on record my sincere thanks to Hon’ble Vice-Chancellor, Prof. Sudhir K. Jain, who has been a source of inspiration and encouragement to me for undertaking research work of this standing. I would also like to thank Prof. D. Mukhopadhyay, Dean, School of Business and all members of the synopsis examination committee, who asked some guided questions and their feedback helped me in improving and enriching the content of the thesis.

The doctoral journey was well supported by the administration staff of the School of Business and the University library. This journey would not have been possible without the support of different people who helped me in the data collection stage. I express my thanks to all of them. I would also like to thank my friends and scholars, who helped me in moving closer to my goal.

Sarabjot Singh