PREFACE

This work is an attempt to study on the life of Sri Lankan Tamil Refugees who have fled from Sri Lanka to Tamil Nadu because of the ethnic crisis in the island country of Sri Lanka and on the refugee management in Tamil Nadu. The study is confined to the ‘Refugees’ living in the camps set up and run by the State Government all over Tamil Nadu during the period 1983-2000. The management of these refugees by the Government of Tamil Nadu with the Co-operation of the Central Government of India and the assistance of a few Non-Governmental Organisations in their efforts is a fascinating study.

In my task of preparation of the present work, I gratefully remember the valuable support and advice of my esteemed Guide and Supervisor Dr. A. Chandrasekaran, Professor in the Department of History, Institute of Correspondence Education, University of Madras, Chennai. He had always been a source of strength to me in all my endeavours. Without his aching interest and valuable directions this difficult task could not have been accomplished. I am greatly indebted to him for his constant encouragement enabling me to complete my research work successfully.

I thank Dr. A. Swaminathan, Director of the Institute of Correspondence Education, University of Madras and the authorities of the University of Madras for permitting me to proceed with the research work in the Department of History, Institute of Correspondence Education, University of Madras. I also thank all the members of the Department of History, Institute of Correspondence Education, University of Madras for their encouragement in my research work.
I must thank Indian Council of Historical Research (ICHR), New Delhi, for granting me ICHR Junior Research Fellowship and Study Grant without which it would have been impossible to complete the task successfully in time.

I am very grateful to Dr. V. Subramaniam, former Director and Professor and Head of the Centre for South and South East Asian Studies, University of Madras, Chennai, for his encouragement and for permitting me to consult his personal collections of records pertaining to my research work.

I thank Dr. V.K. Padmanaban, Professor in the Centre for South and South East Asian Studies, University of Madras, Chennai, for his valuable suggestions during the course of my research work.

I also thank Dr. V. Sudarsen, Professor and Head of the Department of Anthropology, University of Madras, Chennai, for his timely suggestions to carry on my research work.

I further owe a debt of gratitude to the staff of the Department of Rehabilitation, Chepauk, Chennai, for permitting me to consult the records pertaining to my research work.

I am deeply indebted to Mr. S. C. Chandrasekaran, the founder of the Organisation for Eelam Refugees Rehabilitation (OFEERR), a Non-Governmental Organisation deeply involved in the service of the Sri Lankan Tamil Refugees in Tamil Nadu. My personal interview with him regarding this subject was very useful for the study. Without his cooperation it would not have been possible for me to visit the camps situated all over Tamil Nadu and witness personally the welfare activities of the government and their implementation in the camps.

I am also thankful to the working members of the OFERR Mr. Sam Koil Pillai – Adviser and Co-ordinator, Mr. Natesalingam – Coordinator, Samuel Joseph Mark, Karalasingam and the entire staff of the organisation and all the refugees who have information during the interviews with me in the camps situated all over Tamil Nadu.

I must thank Dr. (Mrs.) Nalini Chandrasekaran, wife of my supervisor for her valuable advice and suggestions and encouragement in my research work.

I am extremely grateful to my parents Shri Dhirendra Nath Das and Shrimathi Krishna Das for their constant encouragement, and support. They had always been a source of strength to me in all my endeavours. I dedicate this work to them.

I also express my gratitude to my Brother and Friends for their kind encouragement.

Finally I thank Star Xerox, Chennai, for the nice execution of this work in the present form.
