ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

“I can no other answer make, but, thanks, and thanks”.
- William Shakespeare

This entire journey has been a long one and at times it looked like the ship would not reach its destination with the captains changing the direction of the ship to some avant-garde port. Some jagged seas were stumbled upon and some cargo gone astray and had to be reloaded. I now look forward to being discharged from active service but first I would like to acknowledge members of the crew that have smoothen the hardships encountered during the entire journey.

Gratitude is the hardest emotion to express and often one does not find adequate words to convey all what one feels. Those who helped me to attain something better all the time deserves my attention, thankfulness and deep sincere regards. It gives me tremendous pleasure in acknowledging the valuable assistance extended to me by various personalities in successful completion of this thesis.

With all humility, I would like to thank God, the Almighty, my Guruji, Shri Maharishi Bhrigu Ji Maharaj, who bestowed me with all health and audacity enough to go through this crucial juncture. It is only with his blessings that I could think of and carried out this research work.

In listing my acknowledgements, pride of place and most sincere thanks goes to my supervisor, Dr. Balram Dogra, Director, Apeejay Institute of Management, Jalandhar. Words seem inadequate to describe my appreciation to him. He is an academic of the highest quality and I am grateful to him for his insight and support. I would also like to thank him for his judicious stewardship, innovative ideas and constant encouragement throughout the research work. A father figure, he at all times stood by my side, always treated me as his daughter and guided me on the right track whenever I was about to lose hold of the track. His genuine concern for my well-being helped smooth my progress throughout the Ph.D programme. Above all and the most needed, he provided me persistent encouragement and support in different ways. His truly intuition has made him an invariable oasis of ideas in management, which superbly instigate and augment my growth that a student and a researcher want to be. I am indebted to him more than he knows.

I also would like to express my indebtedness to my co-supervisor, Dr. AK Vashisht, Professor, University Business School, Punjab University, Chandigarh. I am grateful to him for his thought provoking discussions, constant encouragement, superb cooperation and firm belief in me, which ultimately let this research see the light of the day. At times, the discussions were too stretched and assiduous but he always was eager to impart the knowledge on various topics. I have highly been profited to have him as my co-supervisor. I am heartily thankful to him for the encouragement, guidance and support that he provided from the initial to the final juncture that enabled me to develop a thorough understanding of the subject. His association with his originality has triggered and nosh my rational maturity in such an astonishing way that I will benefit from, for a long time to come.

All the endeavors in the present thesis bear the ineffaceable mark of the erudite guidance of both of my supervisor and co-supervisor. On the other hand, profound knowledge and intelligence came as a fortunate thing under their guidance. Their valuable suggestions as final words during the course of work are greatly acknowledged. What I know today about the process of research, I owe that to Dr. Balram Dogra and Dr. A K Vashisht.
My deep thanks to Ms. Madhu, Research Scholar, University Business School, Chandigarh, for guiding me on using and accessing Prowess database which ultimately helped me in the collection of secondary data.

My sincere thanks are also due to the management of all the respondent companies that provided me with precious information on related aspects. I gratefully acknowledge all the respondents from Indian Engineering, FMCG, IT and Textile Industry, for all of them are busy men; yet, they have squeezed out time from their hectic schedule to ensemble their experiences leading to this research.

I would also like to express intellectual indebttness to several scholars whose work has been relied upon in this research work.

I am also thankful to all my friends who have contributed in their own way in this accomplishment of mine. Special thanks to my friend, Ms. Sulakshna Dwivedi. I have benefited enormously to have her as my friend. I will never forget the strength and courage I have received from her, when things were not going on so well. My thanks are also due to her for all the help she has provided me throughout this research work, I would also like to take this opportunity to thank her as she always stood by my side, showed endless patience and entertained my queries with a broad smile on her face. My special thanks to Dr. Navjote Khara, for her caring attitude and endless support which was a source of strength to complete this venture.

My family deserves special mention for their inseparable support and prayers. My special thanks are due to my family that was a constant source of motivation during all the hard times when it mattered the most in the journey of this work. The endeavor has been the result of motivation of my mother, Ms. Usha Rani and my sister, Er. Monika Jain. It is only with their encouragement and impetus that I believed I can undertake this journey successfully. I would like to thank them and my brother, Mr. Vishal Gupta, for all the sacrifices they have to make in crucial times in helping me fulfill this venture on time. I would like to share the happiness of this moment with them. Further the journey was made easy by their constant support along with that of my father, Mr. Sardari Lal Aggarwal and my jiju, Dr. Sandeep Jain.

Finally, I would like to show appreciation to everybody who was important to the successful completion of thesis, as well as expressing my apology that I could not mention personally one by one.
