ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This research is the result of the best wishes, guidance and critical reflections by a number of distinguished people. At the outset, I place on record, my profound sense of gratitude to my guide, Dr. M. Devaraj, Professor, Institute of Development Studies, University of Mysore, Mysuru. I am highly indebted to him for his valuable guidance, encouragement and help.

I am immensely thankful to Prof. Krishne Gowda, Director, Institute of Development Studies, University of Mysore, for his cooperation and administrative support towards the completion of my doctoral work. My sincere thanks to Prof.K. Aiyhanna, Prof T.M.Mahesh and other faculty members in the Institute who have helped me to complete my PhD research work at IDS.

I am also grateful to The Hon’ble Vice Chancellor, The Registrar (Evaluation) and other officials for their unstinted support in administrative work.

I wish to express my deep sense of gratitude to Dr. K G Gayathri Devi, former Professor of Sociology, Institute for Social and Economic Change, Bengaluru without whose timely support; I could not have completed this work. I owe deeply to Smt. Nimmi Ramanathan, Ph.D., Barrister, for her critical comments and valuable support.

My respondents deserve great appreciation for sparing their time and providing significant information for the study, thereby making this research possible. I am also thankful to the Director General, BPR&D and his officers Mr. A Radhakrishna Kini, IPS, Additional DG and Mr. Anshuman Yadav I.P.S, DIG, National Police Mission, the Director, NCRB, DG & IGP.
Karnataka, the Commissioners of police, the IGs of Zones, Superintendents of districts and other sources for the secondary information. I am grateful to Smt. Rani Shetty, Ms. Usha Mohan, Mr. Varadarajan, Ms Kanchana Ganesan, Sri Srikant, Sri Badari and others for facilitating the research process. I am also grateful to Smt. Nalini, Sri. Anil and Sri. Raju for all the secretarial support.

My husband and children have given me constant moral support while I worked on this research, and taken my absence from home and responsibilities with a smile. It is difficult to thank them, instead, I dedicate this work to them, Mr. Subir Hari Singh, Mr. Vineet Jawa and Ms. Yumna Jawa, who not only helped me with the handling of data but lent strength to my elbow at every turn. I also acknowledge with gratitude the support of Ms. Anantica Germick and Mr. Ryan Germick.
