Obviously, the work like the present one contracts, during the period of gestation and production, a large total of debts which may be acknowledged, but cannot be paid, in public.

A many faceted debt, which, I am afraid is beyond repayment is owed to Dr K. Sathyavathi, Associate Professor, Department of Clinical Psychology, National Institute of Mental Health and Neuro-Sciences, (NIMHANS), Bangalore, who at the apex of this research programme as my guide provided able and constructive guidance, support, encouragement, and inspiration at all phases of this work. For all this and more I remain very grateful.

To Dr G.G. Prabhu, Professor and Head of the Department of Clinical Psychology, NIMHANS, I am deeply obliged and thankful without whose active support, generous help, and encouragement many of the impediments encountered in this endeavour would have prevented its fruition.

I am immensely grateful to Dr. J. N. Narayana Reddy, Director, NIMHANS, for permitting me to work and to avail of the various facilities at the Institute and to NIMHANS for the financial assistance through the research period.

Intellectually, I am much indebted to Dr H. N. Murthy, formerly Professor and Head of the Department of Clinical Psychology, NIMHANS, who with unstinting generosity assumed the multiple roles of intellectual conscience, mentor, and clinical advisor. Dr H. N. Murthy allowed me, in the most liberal manner, to draw upon his richly furnished, sharply analytical mind, without expecting any other return than an improved manuscript and perhaps, a more 'aware' indivi-
I would also like to thank Dr Vinoda N Murthy, former Professor and Head of the Department of Clinical Psychology, NIMHANS and presently Professor and Head of the Department of Psychology, Bangalore University, who initially provided the opportunity to take up this research. During her tenure here Dr Vinoda N Murthy's was in every way encouraging and helpful and for this I am very grateful.

In the collection of the data there are many to whom I'm deeply obliged. My sincere thanks is to Dr. R.L. Kapur, Professor and Head of the Department of Psychiatry, to Dr. S.M. Channabasavanna, Professor of Psychiatry and Medical Superintendent, NIMHANS, to the psychiatric and clinical psychology consultants and residents for referring the cases. In no less measure, I remain thankful to the subjects who took part in the study, for their enduring cooperation during the various test sessions.

My acknowledgement and sincere thanks also go out to Mr. D.K. Subbakrishna, Assistant Professor of Biostatistics, NIMHANS, for his statistical assistance and to the Bangalore Institute of Computer Application for carrying out the analysis of the data.

My thanks are due to Mr. M.I. Bhat, Senior Librarian, NIMHANS, and to Ms Neela Cariappa of the Mysore University library in obtaining the needed reference articles and to the librarians at the Indian Institute of Management, Indian Institute of Science and Mysore University library for permitting me to consult the periodicals and books in their institution.

To Mr. K.M. James, I owe a special thanks in providing the typing expertise and who with conscientiousness helped to see the manuscript through its critical stages and for putting up with my last minute deletions and additions.
late father including other members of my family who made possible many uncertainties and helped tide over many crises. To my husband I am immensely indebted who has borne with tolerant understanding the difficult lot of being a preoccupied research student's spouse and to my 3½ year old son - Reza - whose constant query 'When will you finish?' can probably at last be answered in the affirmative. I extend my appreciation to all my friends who have helped me and cheered me on during a work of this kind with its characteristic ups and downs.

Finally, I gratefully acknowledge the services rendered by Mr K.M. Rangaswamy of the cyclostying section for meticulously duplicating the manuscript.

FAZZELI ZOLFAGHARI