ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First and foremost, I would like to thank my greatest teacher of all: GOD. I know that I am here and that I am able to write all of this for a reason. I will do my best in never forgetting what a great fortune I have had in just being here, and that it comes with a lesson and a responsibility. I am sure I am doing the work planned for me. I take this opportunity to thank all the people who joined me, walked besides me, helped me along my way and were instrumental in completion of this work for my doctoral thesis.

I am beholden to my benevolent mentor, my guide, Prof. Paramjit Khurana, for steering me through this journey of enlightenment. This dream could never have been materialized without her. I express my heartfelt gratitude for her constant motivation, constructive criticism, and compassion. I am grateful to her for the immense faith she had in me that remained undeterred in the worst of situations. Her queries on the subject of my research and valuable advices proved to be of immense help in planning the study. She displayed immense patience in making me understand the tactics of planning and execution of experiments and was my friend, philosopher and guide all throughout. The affection in her eyes and the encouraging pat on my back provided the necessary vigor to achieve many a landmarks. I am thankful to God for making her my guide.

I place on records my sincere thankfulness to Prof. J. P. Khurana who took personal interest in my work. He readily extended his helping hand at times of need and gave valuable suggestions during the course of my study. I am also grateful to Prof. I. Dasgupta, Prof. A. Grover and Prof. Madan Mohan for their constant encouragement and affection. I am also thankful to Dr. A. Sharma, Dr. S. Kapoor, Dr. S. Raghuvanshi, Dr. G.K. Pandey and Dr. S. K. Agarwal for their support. Special thanks are extended to my senior Dr. Harsh Chauhan for his confidence in me as well as his rock steady support and teamwork that helped me learn the fine nuances of experimentation. His unsselfish and unfailing support through the thick and thin of research has played a pivotal role in actuating this stupendous task. I am grateful to my colleague and friend Akanksha for her readiness to help and always being there for me. Special mention is due to Drs. Anju and Vibha who stood by me in difficult times and provided immense moral support to overcome the hurdles in life. Their company brightened many a dull lunchtime. I have been blessed with a friendly and cheerful group of juniors. My appreciation is extended to Naveen and Chandrakant for showering me with their warmth, care and attention. I appreciate the cooperation extended to me by my other colleagues Preeti, Bushra and Suboot. I will always be thankful to Drs. Shalini, Manaswini, Neetu and Bhumica for their care and affection. I am also thankful to Brijmohan, Vishal and Yogesh for their needful assistance in my day-to-day work.

I am grateful to my colleagues Dr. Rahul and Dr. Reema who were of immense help in planning the experiments but also stood firmly by my side in extreme odds. The personal bondage shared with Priyanka B, Ritu, Sonia and Priyanka A provided strength to overcome several hurdles during the course of my studies. I am grateful to Drs. Desai, Neelam, Ravi, Saloni, Shubhankar, Aman, Manoj, Rita and Jaspreet who helped me with their expertise at various junctures of my work. I also thank Adwaita, Dheeraj, Ratnesh, Dhruv, Indu, Alka, Gopal, Rashmi, Vinay, Mohan, Poonam, Akshilesh, Amarjeet, Amit, Gitanjali, Ankur, Nabanita, Vaishali, Fauzia, Ravi, Rashmi, Mahesh, Heena, Anirban and Pratima for their cheerful company and zestful enthusiasm. I extend my heartfelt thanks to Seenu, Nitisha, Saurabh, Rachit Richa A, Richa S, Parul and Upasna who consistently boosted my morale in difficult times. Without friends like them, this milestone was difficult to be reached.

I am also thankful to Dr. Nina Chaudhary for her genuine interest and instant help during confocal experiments. The help of Mrs Shashi Mehta, Mrs. Neelam Bedi, Mrs. Renu Dhawan and the other administrative and non-administrative staff of DPMB is acknowledged for assistance and guidance.

My parents and my nani are GOD’s gift to me, who are behind everything I have achieved. They are the reason I thrive to be better. Their pride in me is my main goal in life. They have instilled in me a positive approach towards life and motivated me to give my best. The love and affection showered on me by my sister Sonal has strengthened me through harsh times that cannot be captured in words.

Last but not the least, I thank everyone whom I might have forgot to mention here. The financial help provided by DBT (Department of Biotechnology) Govt. of India is duly acknowledged.