ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I extend hereby my humble and heartfelt gratitude to my supervisor, Dr. J.P. Singh, for his constructive criticisms and invaluable suggestions throughout the study; without his expert guidance this study could not have been completed.

Special thanks to Dr. M.V. Gadgil, Mr. U. Aiyaswamy and Mr. Ahmad Raza for their constant encouragement.

My hearty thanks are to Dr. Harinarayana for his sincere help he had extended in the preparation of the thesis.

Special credits go to Mr. K.R. Bhat and P. Kannan for their unfailing assistance for computer programming.

My thanks are to the Ministry of Agriculture and Irrigation for the permission to use the data from the Farm Management Schedule.
My acknowledgements are due to Mr. Vallinayagam, A.E.R.C., Madras University for the help he extended for collecting the data from the schedules of Farm Management.

I do not find words to thank
Ms. R.Rajalakshmi, Mr. V.Puhazhendi, Mr. K.Balasubramaniyan and Mr. S.T.Sudarsan for the help they had rendered for the thesis.

A special note of thanks is due to Mr. S.Krishnan and Mr. G.Venkata Krishnan for their efficient typing.

I express my gratitude to the Institute For Social and Economic Change, Bangalore, for awarding the research fellowship during the study.
