ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

At the outset I extend my gratefulness to my supervisor Dr. Abdullah Ali Ashraf, Associate Professor, Department of Anthropology, Gauhati University for offering me valuable guidance while preparing my Ph.D dissertation. He was a constant source of my inspiration.

The crystallization of my present work is an outcome of good wishes and inspiration from the entire department of Anthropology of Gauhati University. I acknowledge with gratitude the co-operation I had received from various institutes - the Department of Historical and Antiquarian Studies, Assam State Museum, Kamrup Anusandhan Samiti, Assam Institute of Research for Tribal and Scheduled Castes (Guwahati), Library of the Indian Council of Historical Research- North East Regional Centre, Krishna Kanta Handiqui Library of Gauhati University, Meteorological Research Centre of Borjhar, Department of Geology and Geography of Gauhati University.

I extend my sincere gratefulness to the Wadia Institute of Himalayan Geology, Dehradun for analyzing our samples for chronometric dating.

I acknowledge the help and encouragement of the educationists Professor M. Taher, Bapukan Choudhury, Birinchi Kumar Medhi, Dr. Saibal Sengupta and Late Dr. Sankar Kumar Roy.

I gratefully acknowledge the help and co-operation rendered to me by the scores of my Rabha, Bodo, Khasi, Garo, Tiwa and Karbi friends. Further, I must thank all the villagers and respondents who extended active help and co-operation during my field work.

I acknowledge the invaluable help and co-operation of Ms. Rita Deka, Mr. Bhaskarjyoti Gogoi, Dr. Kalpana Choudhury, Mr. Murulidhar Das, Mr. Sanjeev Gogoi, Mr. Ratul Gogoi and Ms. Garima Thakuria who helped me while carrying out field work.

A profound sense of indebtedness, issues from the core of my heart to my parents. My mother Mrs. Sashi Bala Gogoi and my mother-in-law Mrs. Renuka Duarah acted as a latent force in pursuing this work, without whose blessings and encouragement it would not have been possible.

My father Late Rajendra Nath Gogoi stood as moral guide and acted as a driving force in each and every academic pursuit of mine. I am extremely grateful to my father for his priceless contribution in my life. At the same time, I should remember the inspiring words of my brother Late Anjanjyoti Gogoi who, in reality, germinated the seed of the doctoral research in my mind long back. I would therefore, like to dedicate this work in fond memory of my father and brother whose blessings sustained my spirit at the every stage of the present work.

I offer my heartfelt love and gratitude to my husband Mr. Gautam Duarah for his encouragement and help at every steps of my work. I like to express my heartfelt love and affection to my minor sons Abhigyan and Debagyan who settled them silently in my each and every step.

I am grateful to Mr. Jayanta Nath and Mr. Asish Dutta Bhowmick for their serious involvement and support in composing the technical aspects.

I express my deep sense of gratitude to Mrs Jyotirupa Sharma and Mrs Chitralekha Baruah for their invaluable cooperation in completing the task.

Last but not the least, I would like to thank my sister and in-laws for their constant support and co-operation.
