ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

It is my earnest pleasure, at the very outset, to acknowledge the support and thorough concern from the philosopher and guide, who initiated me into undertaking this work, my supervisor, Professor Rana Nayar, Department of English, Panjab University. I owe him the accomplishment of my overall personality and a refined way of looking at things and the life itself. The generosity and insight from him helped me out to complete the otherwise strenuous assignment of understanding the very roots of the topic and its ultimate fruition. The contemporary world of information technology kept me in touch with his valuable inputs all day long. The vast vistas of wisdom and knowledge were opened for me by his intellectual endeavor making me understand the world at large.

I would like to thank the Chairperson as well as the teachers of the English Department who helped me a lot, right from the selection of the topic till the completion of the research.

My special thanks are due to the Vice Chancellor, and, Head, Department of English, BPSMV, Khanpur Kalan for their support as I was awarded relaxation of various duties giving me ample time to visit distant libraries for consultation for this work.

I have no words to express my heartfelt gratitude to Prof. Kapil Kapoor, Dr. Vivek Sachdeva, Dr. Himanshu Parmar, Dr. Ashok Verma and my other colleagues from the Department of English BPSMV, Khanpur Kalan, Sonepat. Dr. Virender Khatkar extended his kind support for the work taken into consideration. I gratefully acknowledge the intellectual impetus of all the erudite scholars for sparing their valuable time and sorting out certain issues on proper lines for this thesis. I am immensely indebted to all the Librarians of various libraries. Their consistent reinforcement provided additional reference to additional source material.

Geeta, Manuradha, Preeti Pant, Mukesh Sharma, Dr. Vishnu, Dr. Mahendra, Rajesh are special friends to mention who did not let my heart away and endured my discontent during a challenging phase. Their consistent moral support and interest in my work helped me keeping my cool.

I wish to thank my sister Priyanka and brother-in-law, Virender Dhillon, for their continuous support and encouragement.

I owe a great debt of gratitude to the members of my family, particularly my parents, my brother Kranti Prabhat, my husband Amrish, my son Ojus and my daughter Peehu for their constant efforts in making enjoyable environment at home. In fact it was their time stolen by me that enabled me to complete this work.
