ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am very grateful to the management of various organisations in Bangladesh for their whole-hearted co-operation in the collection of data for the study. I am also equally grateful to the Government of India for extending financial assistance for the present study under the Indo-Bangladesh Cultural and Academic Exchange Programme.

I am greatly indebted to Prof. T.N. Kapoor, Dean of the Faculty of Business Management and Commerce, Panjab University, Chandigarh, for his initial guidance and constant encouragement to complete the study. My thanks are also due to Prof. S.D. Tripathi and Prof. B.N. Mehrotra, present and former Chairman of the Department for their numerous help during the period of my sojourn.

My complete indebtedness is to Dr. K.K. Mangla, my research supervisor for his guidance, constructive suggestions and painstaking efforts at every stage of my work. Words are not adequate to convey my sense of gratitude to Dr. Mangla. It was a pleasing experience to work under his supervision. My thanks are for Mr. Mohammad Ali Mian, M.Sc., Associate Professor of Management, Dhaka University, for his help in planning the statistical aspects of the study. I am also thankful to Mr. B.R. Kondoi, M.A. (Math.), M.A. (Eco.), Reader, Department of Economics, Panjab University for helping me in solving statistical problems and also for going through the relevant portion of the manuscript. Mr. Ramesh Kumar Kainth deserves thanks for carefully typing the manuscript of the thesis.

To my wife Tunu and children Babu and Bula, I owe a special debt. They tolerated my self-imposed isolation and oscillating moods very sympathetically. Their sacrifice is tremendous.

Last but not the least is the encouragement of my parents and parents-in-law which helped in completing the study in due time. I am most grateful to them.
