ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am deeply indebted to Dr A R Rajapurush, without whose constant guidance, help and encouragement the study would not have come through. I am grateful to Dr L V Venkataramanan, the former Director and to Dr G Thimmaiah, Director, Institute for Social and Economic Change (ISEC), Bangalore for having provided the facilities to complete the work.

I am extremely grateful to Prof P Venkataramaiah, Mr A R Kulkarni and Ms L Argade, Gokhale Institute of Politics and Economics (GIPE), Pune for their generous help, advice and suggestions while framing the flow tables, splitting the same into different flow tables and also for having shaped my work as a thesis.

My grateful thanks are due to Dr N S Iyengar, Indian Statistical Institute, Bangalore and to Dr N Naganna, Indian Institute of Management, Bangalore, for their kind suggestions on the selection of the study villages.
I am thankful to Dr M V Nadkarni, ISEC and to Dr M G Chandrakanth, University of Agricultural Sciences, Bangalore, for their guidance in sectorization and making entries in the flow tables.

I owe my thanks to Dr V M Rao, Dr N D Kamble, Dr S Giriappa and Dr P M Kulkarni, ISEC, Bangalore and to Dr S Neelakantan, Dr C Thangamuthu, Dr V B Athreya and Ms S Lakshmi, Bharathidasan University, Trichy, for their encouragements during the course of this work.

The study would not have been completed but for the willing cooperation of the residents of Palamputhur and Vengidengal. I extend my thanks to them and particularly to Mr Veerappan’s and Mr Sambandham Kudaliar's family members who gave me shelter and food in their house for a period of six months.
On a personal note, I place my thankfulness to my parents, wife and friends, particularly to Mr V Mohanasundaram, Ms M Indira, Mr S Parthasarathy, Ms K Jayalakshmi and Mr R K Parthasarathy.

I should be thankful to the Library staff of both the ISEC, Bangalore and GIPE, Pune, for their kind cooperation.

I am also thankful to Mr H K Govinda Rao for his excellent and painstaking typing of the thesis.
