ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am indebted to many persons whose writing conversations and discussions inspired me to undertake this endeavour.

I find it difficult to find words to express my profound gratitude and indebtedness to my revered supervisor, Dr. J. L. Rastogi, Professor, Department of Commerce and Business Management, Panjab University, Chandigarh for his invaluable guidance and deep interest in the conduct of this research endeavour. This thesis would not have seen the light of the day but for his constant encouragement and involvement throughout the period over which the research work was carried out.

I am also highly grateful to Late Dr. C. P. Babu, Reader, Department of Commerce and Business Management, Panjab University, Chandigarh for his sincere guidance, valuable advice and all possible help to complete this work.

It is my pleasant duty to place on record my sincere thanks to Dr. Shashi Anand, Lecturer, Department of Commerce, Kurukshetra University, Kurukshetra for his involvement, guidance and moral support at the time when it was needed most.

I am also thankful to Shahid Raza, Gurdeep Singh, O. P. Juyul, P. K. Sharma and many other members of the industrial units studied by me for providing me all the necessary information and help.

I would also express my sincere thanks to Mr. Piyush Behl and Mr. Vinod Kumar of Chamber of Indian Industries, Chandigarh for providing me the necessary information regarding the Indian Industries.

I am also thankful to the persons of various libraries who helped me at various stages of the study. My thanks are also due to the members of Shri Ram Centre for Industrial Relations and Human Resources, New Delhi for providing me the useful information regarding the subject.

I would also express my thanks to Mr. Jagan Nath Munjal whose professional skills and sincere efforts helped me in the computerized printing of this thesis with in a very short period of time.

Chandigarh
Dec. 31, 1993

(UMA RANI)