The experience of writing the Thesis and compiling all of the research findings has been the greatest learning experience of my life. I am grateful to a lot of people and institutions without whom accomplishing this task would not have been possible.

This journey has not only enriched my knowledge of my subject but also broadened my academic world view greatly. I want to deeply thank my Supervisors, Dr. Deepa Saran and Prof. Kanchan Chopra for their unstinting support, guidance and faith in my work. Their dedicated attention, the endless hours of discussions and productive suggestions have shaped the exhaustive data into a manageable dimension. It has been a great privilege to work with Dr. Deepa Saran and Prof. Kachan Chopra who have shared their expertise and knowledge with me throughout this process; sometimes by pushing me to meet to their high standards of academic excellence and at other times by supporting and encouraging me like a friend to explore newer perspectives. I have the highest respect and admiration for them, both as academicians and wonderful human beings.

I have also been fortunate to have interacted with eminent academicians who have worked in the field of Poverty in West Bengal such as Prof. Madan Gopal Ghosh of Vishwa Bharati University and Late Prof. A.N. Basu who was a member of the State Planning Board of West Bengal. I will forever be indebted to them as my mentors whose willingness to share their experience and insights inspired the direction of my work.

Here I would like to mention Dr. K.R.G. Nair with whom I started my research. As my first guide he helped me a lot and his continued interest in my work over the years even when he has not been my guide is deeply appreciated.

I would also like to thank Dr. A.K. Ghosh, Director of ENDEV for helping me broaden the perspective of my study by introducing me to various NGOs active in the study area and concepts of bio diversity in the context of my work.

I thank all the NGOs working in the area for their logistic and informational support during the field study. Here, I’d like to especially mention members of the Lok Kalyan Parishad, the Usha Gram Trust, Ashurali Gram Unnayan Parishad and Kisholay Taruntirtha for their passionate support to the research.
I would like to express my heartfelt gratitude to Prof. S.C. Santra, Environmental Scientist with Kalyani University for all his help in facilitating my Water Quality Survey. I also want to thank all the experts on water like Dr. Nitai Kundu, Dr. R.K. Mazumdar, Prof. Jayashree Roy and Prof. Kalyan Rudra whose enlightening insights on the subject have helped me in my work immensely.

A special thanks to my field investigators Mr. Sanjay Dhar and Mr. Ashish Saha as well as the local field interviewers for their tireless efforts for my work. Most of all I want to thank all the villagers in the 7 districts of West Bengal who formed my sample for their cooperation and warmth.

I thank the Directorate of Land Records for granting me access to Land data of all districts in West Bengal. I also want to thank NSS, especially Mr. S.C. Sheddy from Kolkata and Mr. Amar Puri from Delhi for their generous explanations on data and special processing of data for my research.

My research endeavor would not have been possible without the support and encouragement of my Colleagues and students at Lady Shri Ram College. I take this opportunity to thank my Principal Dr. Meenakshi Gopinath for giving me leave to complete my work as well as for being a constant source of positive thoughts through all the ups and downs of this process.

I thank UGC for the support given to my survey work in way of a partial grant. My affiliation with IEG was extremely helpful during the period of my research. I thank everyone at IEG especially Prof. Aroop Mitra, Dr. Indrani Gupta, Prof. Purnamita Dasgupta and Dr. Vikram Dayal for all their inputs. I would also like to thank Mr. Shridharan, Ms. Shampa Pal and others at the computer lab for their generous assistance. I cherish the friendship with my peergroup at IEG, especially Dr. Saudamini Das and Dr. Usha Gupta

In the end, I want to thank my family for standing by me and loving me unconditionally through this most ambitious endeavor of mine. I want to especially thank my husband for being my pillar of strength through it all. I am thankful to my daughters for being there for me in every way and helping me keep my morale up even in difficult times. I thank my son & daughter in law for their constant encouragement and my granddaughter for inspiring me to do my best. And at the end I thank God and my guides who have helped me get where I am today.
