CHAPTER 1 – INTRODUCTION 1-20

The Information Technology Revolution
What is Glass Ceiling?
The Idea of a Glass Ceiling
Glass Ceiling in the IT Sector
India and Information Technology
The IT Revolution in India
The Digital Pioneers
The Research Problem
Key Questions
The Main Objectives of the Study
Importance of the Study
A Brief Note on the Plan of the Thesis
References

CHAPTER 2 – A REVIEW OF LITERATURE: CONCEPTUAL, EMPIRICAL AND THEORETICAL 21-60

Introduction
The Glass Ceiling: The Conceptual Debates
Glass Ceiling Studies
Comprehensive Case Studies: Glass Ceiling in the Workplace
Occupational Segregation and Gender Stereotyping
Glass Wall
Glass Cliff
Sticky Floor Effect
Communication Gap
CHAPTER 3 – THE FIELD: KARNATAKA AS THE SEAT OF IT 61-113
CHAPTER 4 – METHODOLOGY

The Datum
Primary Data
Secondary Sources
Data Collection
Serendipity
The Method of Network Analysis
Networks as a Methodological Device
Epistemological Basis of the Network Method
Georg Simmel and Social Interaction
Working through Networks
Network and Degrees of Connection
Orders of Networks
Functioning of the Network
The Usefulness of Network Analysis
Sampling Paradigm
Statistical Tools
Epistemological Concerns Revisited
Conclusion
References

CHAPTER 5 – ANALYSIS OF THE DATA – I
Glass Ceiling: Myth or Reality?
Is there a Glass Ceiling?

Introduction
Operationalising the concept of Glass Ceiling
Glass Ceiling as a Social Fact
Glass Ceiling Defined
Description of the Sample
Glass Ceiling Analysis
The Number of Women
Educational Qualifications
CHAPTER 6 – ANALYSIS OF THE DATA – II

Why is there a Glass Ceiling?

Introduction
Organisational Work Culture
Fair Treatment at Workplace
Adequately Developed as an Employee
Job Satisfaction
Organisational Efforts for Gender Inclusivity
Diversity Policies
Importance of Gender at Job Hierarchies
Gender as a Basis for Team Selection
Exigent Behaviours
Glass Wall
Denial of Biases
Peer Group Hostility
Inter gender Social Interaction
Communication on the Job
Sexual Harassment Regime
Safety and Security Concerns
Office Ambience
Career Orientation among Men and Women: How much do Women Care for their Careers?
Working Hours
Job Security Concerns
Opting Out: What ‘Choice’ to Make?
Intention to Continue in Employment
Desire to Quit
Reasons for Quitting
Sticky Floor
Priority Accorded to Career
Being Married
Being Single
Family Considerations
Family values
Patriarchy
Decision Making
Housework
Division of Labour
Child Care
Work-Life Balance (Career-Family Conflict)
Family Expectations
Tensions at home
Job Stress
Health Concerns
Commuting to Work
Flexible Work Hours
Work - Life Balance
Role Conflict
Self Evaluation
Self-Assessment of Ability
Promotions
Inclination for taking New Job Challenges
Do women hold themselves back?
Self-Esteem
Self Confidence as Hubris
Perception of Leadership Qualities
The CEO Race
Other Aspects of Personality
Some other Factors
Alienation
Lack of Mentor Support
Summary and Conclusions
Need for a Paradigm Shift
References

CHAPTER 7 – ANALYSIS OF THE DATA – III
Where does the Ceiling Begin?

Background
Higher Education in Karnataka: An Overview
Growth in Enrolment and GER
GER Ranking
Gender Parity Index
Technical Education
Description of the Sample
The Findings
The Glass Ceiling
Glass Cliff?
Gender Stereotyping
Educational Attainment
CHAPTER 8 – CONCLUDING REMARKS

What does the Research Reveal?
Industry Survey
Students’ Survey
Contribution to Disciplinary Knowledge
What Happens to the Women?
Who is to take the Blame?
The Policy Makers
Tyranny of ‘Meritocracy’
The Abyss of Knowledge Capitalism
The Precipice of ‘Choice’
The Clamp of Patriarchy
The Need for Organisational Sensitivity
Value Transformation
Finding Oneself as an Individual
Epilogue
References

BIBLIOGRAPHY

APPENDIX 1- IT Sector Questionnaire

APPENDIX 2- Students’ Questionnaire