Acknowledgment

The last five years in IUCAA was, in retrospect, the most eventful time of my life. I came across a wide variety of people, who really enriched my life in various (academic and non-academic) ways. The list of people is really long, nevertheless, I will take this opportunity to thank all of them.

No doubt, the most important and influential person in this journey is my supervisor, Srianand. He is my ‘friend, philosopher and guide’ in the true sense. In hindsight, I can not imagine being better supervised. While working with him, you have to be prepared for his forthright opinion, whether you like it or not. That is something which really takes time to get used to, however, if you survive the process, you will feel the difference! He is not only an innovative scientist with lots of interesting ideas, but also a great human being at the same time. Although he has huge affection for his students, he will never ever show that off, even by mistake!

I am indebted to my collaborators, Patrick, Jacqueline, Blair and Anand, for helping me understand various things. Scientific discussions with them were indeed very interesting and inspiring. In addition, I would like to thank Kandu and Pushpa for carefully reading almost all the manuscripts of my papers. Thanks to Ranjeev, Swara, Gulab for marking most of the ‘IUCAA dance parties’ very interesting.

Special thanks to Soumya-da and Susmita-di, for helping me understand various theoretical and computational aspects of my research in the beginning. Thanks are also extended to Sudipta-da, Himan-di, Saranya-da, Mudit-bhai for their constant encouragements. Further, I would like to thank my batch-mates Gaurav and Nidhi, and my immediate seniors like Moumita-di, Jones, Prasant, Tuhin, Baba and Shrutidi, postdocs Rizwan, Sanil, Debu-da for making this place so lively.

It is time to acknowledge Sibe, with whom I have spent most of my leisure time discussing music, poetry and politics (in worst cases, astronomy!), over tea/coffee/Satheen. Although he pretends to be my elder brother, with time, he has become one of my best friends ever. One has to be really lucky to find such a great friend. He is truly an innocent human being whose ‘helping hand’ is always there for me.

Dipanjan has been a great officemate, I must say. We really enjoy/enjoyed being in the office, spending most of our time in PNPCs (harmless gossip)! It is a pleasure to acknowledge my juniors, Aditya, Charles, Sanved, Nisha, Nagendra, Vikram, Mainpal, Krishnamohan, Pallavi, Santanu(Mao), Pritesh, Suvodip, Anirban, Sabyasachi and Balaji (a.k.a Kartik!), with whom I have spent several years and I still find them very interesting! I am thankful to Hadi and Vivek for helping me in various ‘spectroscopic-problems!’

Above all, I would like to gratefully acknowledge the unconditional support from my family members: my parents, my lovely sister and Boro-ma. Their constant support and inspiration made me confident and made me believe that I can make things happen. Besides them, Rajeshwari is the one who made a major phase change (I call it ‘reionization’!) in my Ph.D life. It is a great pleasure to acknowledge her for being with me when I felt helpless, for taking care of me wholeheartedly and, of course, for patiently correcting my English!

Finally, I am grateful to CSIR for financial support and to IUCAA for providing such an excellent research environment.
